EXPECT ITALY AND FRANCE TO BE AT PARLEY

Three Powers Want Others to Be Informed on Trend of Discussions

IS ISSUE OF GOOD FAITH
U. S. Is Anxious to Avoid Suspicion by French and Italian Nations

Washington — Confidence prevails here that France and Italy ultimately will be present at the conference to be held at Geneva to limit naval armaments. Any other course should be surprising to Japan, the United States and Great Britain, who merely want the two other powers to be informed accurately on what the discussions are so that no charge
can later be made that agreements were made without consulting the lesser naval powers.

The United States is particularly anxious to avoid a repetition of what happened at the last conference on naval armament in Washington. The French were especially disturbed because they thought Great Britain and the United States had secretly arrived at an understanding in advance and without consulting the French.
Even after the conference started the French were not brought into the picture soon enough to make them feel they were on equal terms with the great powers in the discussion.

CABINET IS DIVIDED
Reports that the French cabinet is divided on the subject of sending an unofficial observer, and that one element wishes no participation at all were here as due to a lack of understanding of the aims of the conference.

The United States in its notes to France and Italy has recognized that neither of those countries may want to make a commitment in advance and thus the phraseology of the invitation makes it possible for unofficial observers to listen to the proceedings without taking any part in them. The truth is that Great Britain, the United States and Japan would like to have the French and Italians get their facts first-hand from the negotiations at Rome and Paris get their impression from press reports. Also there is the hope that a formula may be found which will permit France to depart from her announcement that unless land armament is taken up she will not consider limitation of her navy.

France and Italy have special reasons for wishing to expand the size and number of auxiliary craft,
the problem of a satisfactory ratio
for the three big navies probably would, if solved, have a restraining influence on both Italy and France.
While the French cabinet has not yet fully realized it that the United States is in earnest in trying to obtain limitation of naval armament and that if the French block the plan
there will not be the favorable impression here toward a re-consideration of war debts which European writers regard as inevitable. Until expenditures for naval and military purposes are cut down, the capacity of France to pay her debts to the United States will be regarded as adequate by those in congress who insist that the debt agreements be made as just.

REPORT NICARAGUANS ARE DYING OF DISEASE

Mexico City—(AP)—Hundreds of Nicaraguan conscript soldiers are dying on the battlefields of May, May and Tierra Azul for lack of medical attention, say dispatches received by Pedro Zepeda, envoy here for the Liberal Nicaraguan regime under Dr.
Juan Seseas.

The Liberals are unable to attend them as their medical supplies are insufficient for their own needs, the dispatches say. Zepeda charges that the American authorities have forbidden
the entry of such supplies for the use of the Liberals.

The Liberal envoy is informed that the casualties on both sides in the May battle were heavy. The Liberals launched a bayonet charge after seven hours of firing, routing 1,500
Conservatives under General Reyes, who left 170 dead on the field.
"Countless wounded" the dispatches
add, "were crawling along the road to Mina Verde seeking medical attention,
and many are dying from exposure
and exhaustion."

THIEVES ENTER FIVE EVANSVILLE GARAGES

Janesville—(AP)—Five garages were entered by thieves early Thursday morning in Evansville, 17 miles north of here. Besides a small sum in cash, automobile accessories, tires, batteries and other things were taken. Two cafes were forced open, and $75 in one of them was overlooked by the thieves.

FORD LAWYER SAYS MAGAZINE PRINTED TRUTH IN ARTICLES

Reed Hopes to Prove Dearborn Independent Did Not Libel Sapiro

Federal Court, Detroit—(AP)— Senator James A. Reed, chief counsel for Henry Ford in the $1,000,000 libel
suit brought by Aaron Sapiro, told the jury Thursday he expected to show that everything printed about Sapiro and his marketing "associations in the Dearborn Independent was truth. "The law puts no burden on the truth," he said.

Senator Reed took up his opening statement Thursday morning, immediately after William Henry Gallagher had concluded his opening statement for the plaintiff. Evidence would show, Senator Reed said, that Sapiro sent organizers throughout the country peddling a panacea for the ills of the farmers, promising them fine homes, riches, college education for their children and large automobiles.
Business managers chosen at Sapiro's selection, Senator Reed declared, were given wide powers in controlling the products of the farmers who signed contracts of five to seven years with him.

FARMERS HAD NO VOICE

"The farmers had no right to say when or where their products were to be marketed," he said, "and the managers were at liberty to give them any price for their products they saw fit."

PORTUGUESE ACE MAKES FLIGHT OVER ATLANTIC

day morning, having flown across the Atlantic from Portuguese Guinea.

RISING RIVERS ARE THREAT TO VILLAGE

Odanah Residents Appeal to Ashland; Rescue Parties Are Sent Out

Ashland—(AP)— Snow, melting in the woods, has raised the White and Red rivers to such an extent that Odanah, the Indian reservation village located ten miles east of here, is imperiled by flood waters, it was reported Thursday morning.
Calls for help from Odanah residents have reached Ashland and plans for rescuing parties outfitted with dugouts to carry the people from the flood zone are being made here.
An effort is being made by the sheriffs force to send aid to the village although the state highways so badly
that it is impossible to reach the village by car.
Water is rising rapidly in Bad River.
It is reported, and many of the small houses on the edge of the river are already marooned.

Although the water had risen three feet since early morning no real danger is expected at the village for several hours. The water is continuing to rise and it is feared that some of the houses near the river will be swept away. The flood is at present covering the floor in some of the one story buildings, but residents report that many of the houses have passed through worse floods.

SENATE GIVES CHAIRMANSHIP TO NORTHERNER

Senate Backs Water and Expresses Appreciation of Lenroot Dairy Law

Madison—(AP)—Senatorial action was taken Thursday to quiet troubled conditions in the joint legislative finance committee, when Senator W. L. Smith of Neillsville, was chosen to succeed Senator William A. Titus, Fond du Lac, as chairman of the group, through adoption of a report from the committee on committees, regarding the change.

Senator Titus, in turn was elected to the place at the head of the committee on public welfare, formerly held by the Neillsville senator.

The action was taken without a roll call vote and apparently brought to an end the "strike" of disgruntled committee members, who sought to oust Titus because of his vote in favor of the removal of James Borden as secretary of the board of public affairs.

MOVE SEQUEL TO STRIKE

The move to shift chairmanships came as a sequel to a strike of more than two weeks duration, with only brief intervals of peace, which had resulted in stagnation of committee work.

Senator Titus refused to heed the request of recalcitrant members, but various committee measures were advanced by both factions. Senator Titus representing the Conservative-Republican group and the strikers the Progressives. Assembly action resulted in the introduction of a resolution calling for the appointment of Mr.
Borden as secretary to the finance board, but no definite action was taken.

Thursday's selections probably will reestablish the committee on a working basis, it was thought, striking members having previously indicated approval of Senator Smith.

When the strike first loomed the matter was given to the committee on committees for consideration but that group returned a report favoring Titus' retention as chairman.

LENROOT ACTION WINS

Reconsideration of action Wednesday
when the senate refused to pass a joint resolution in appreciation of former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot's efforts in the enactment of a federal dairy law, the upper branch of Wisconsin's legislature Thursday adopted
the measure by the margin of a single vote.

The 17 to 16 vote, the same which defeated the resolution Wednesday,
found no shift in the voting of senators but with the favorable vote of Senator Boldt, Sheboygan, absent
Thursday it was adopted.

Leutenant Governor Henry A. Hubber, breaking a 16 to 16 tie at the position, was not called upon to vote Thursday. Motion to reconsider the resolution was made by Senator W. L.
Smith and was passed 18 to 15.

DELAY ACTION ON NEMACHEK

Action on the confirmation of Joseph T. Nemacheck's appointment as a member of the state highway commission was again deferred in the senate following a motion by Senator Blanchard of Edgerton.

In moving the delay, the Edgerton
senator stated that he had received a communication from Mr. Nemacheck in which the LaCrosse man wished to have the confirmation postponed "until his ability and integrity had been investigated."

DEAN WOULD CLASSIFY ALL COLLEGE STUDENTS

Chicago—(AP)—Classification of students into groups of those who seek an education, and those who merely wish to go to college, is essential to reduce the number of student failures, H. Gluckman, assistant dean of the college of letters and science of the University of Wisconsin Thursday told members of the North Central Association of Colleges and Universities
here.

Outside work, poor health, mental disquiet, extra-curricular activities, social diversions and the lure of college life in general, noisy surroundings and undesirable associates, inadequate methods of study, meagre natural endowments and plain indifference and apathy are the principal causes of scholastic failures. "There are no two failing students in whom these various causes operate in the same combination," he said.

Lack of firmness and steadiness of purpose is "exceedingly prominent"
among the causes of undergraduate failures, Mr. Gluckman said. "There are no substitutes and no vacations for character," he said.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES AT MANITOWOC

Manitowoc—(AP)—William Hacker,
one of the three surviving Civil War veterans of Manitowoc, died at the age of 82 years. Up to a year ago he always insisted upon marching in the Memorial day parade. He leaves two daughters.

Heavy Demand For Booths At Homes And Food Show

The demand for booths at the Better Homes and Pure Food show to be conducted by the Appleton Post-Crescent in Armory G on April 6, 7 and 8 indicates that all reservations will be taken up in a very short time. Almost every dealer in foods and in things for the home wants to get in the show and it is probable that the armory will not be large enough to accommodate all who wish to enter exhibits and make displays.

The Better Homes and Pure Food
show is a new venture in Appleton and is attracting a great deal of attention. The idea is to show Appleton people what can be obtained here
and to give them suggestions for home improvements.

The home building exhibit will be of particular interest to the home builder.
Practically everything that is needed for building or furnishing a home will be shown and there are so many new things that the prospective home builder would do well to postpone final action on his plan until after the show for surely he will find something that he will wish to incorporate and make changes that he will want to make.

And the person whose interest centers on foods and their preparation
will find a great deal to intrigue her.
New ways of preparing old foods and new foods prepared in old ways will be demonstrated and Friend Husband will be glad that there was a show here.

On top of the exhibits, which are entertaining enough for about everyone, entertainment of another sort will be provided. This hasn't been worked out completely but there will be music and singing and other diversions. Nothing will be left undone to make this first Better Homes and Pure Food show a rousing success.

1,100 Superior Citizens Demand Teacher's Return

Superior—(AP)—Eleven hundred indignant students and citizens here in a mass-meeting Wednesday night gave unanimous approval to the resolution demanding immediate reinstatement of Miss Lulu Dickinson as member of the faculty of Central high school from which position she was ousted by the board of education Monday for failure to "cooperate with the board and for deriding the existing school system."

A general walkout among 250 senior students at the Central high school was averted when it was decided that Frank Hayes, the secretary of the public affairs committee here, and H.
B. Smith, railroad worker, would meet Thursday afternoon to name a committee who will make formal demands to the board early next week. Meanwhile students have decided to maintain strict order in the classrooms.

If the board refuses to reinstate Miss Dickinson, the students will strike, their leaders assert. Miss York Vick, pretty 18-year-old senior, told before a crowd that jammed a hall to capacity last night and bitterly flayed
the school board, upholding in youthful enthusiastic manner the traditions said. "Miss Dickinson has embodied into the minds of every student at Central."

"There is no incentive to study any more at Central and at the rate the board of education is running things
the school will go to pot," Miss Vick said. Mary Brown, another student leader, promised the citizens that the "students would behave themselves if the board provided the faculty with its dearest member, by returning Dickie."

Paul R. Spencer, school superintendent, was bitterly assailed by students said. "My dear Sir, if you don't approve Miss Dickinson's dismissal, Motions were adopted by the meeting
calling for a change in the operation of the board and for making the board
an elective office, rather than appointive."

Two hundred and fifty students, and about 100 citizens were turned away from the hall before the meeting began. It was so crowded that a squad of six policemen was kept on hand to maintain order. Hundreds stood outside in a drizzling rain from 6 o'clock until 7:30 to be sure to obtain a seat
at the meeting.

Student rioting, which for a time
was threatened when police stopped ingress into the hall, was quelled by an appeal from the chair.

20,000 PARADE TO PAY HONOR TO ST. PATRICK

New York—(AP)—A parade of 20,000 persons was the feature of New York's celebration of St. Patrick day Thursday. Headed by the 16th infantry, New York National guard, the old "fighting 69th," representatives of 110 organizations turned out to march up Fifth-ave for 65 blocks.

Reviews were arranged at St. Patrick's cathedral by Cardinal Hayes and other clergymen, and at Sixty-fourth-st by Governor Smith, Mayor
James Walker and Brig. General John
J. Phelan. Supreme Court Justice
Thomas W. Churchill was grand marshal.

St. Patrick's day greetings will be sent over the radio on Thursday night
by Damon De Valera, former president of the Irish republic, and Timothy Smiddy, Irish Free State minister to the United States, both of whom will speak from station WRNY.

WEALTHY MILWAUKEE PAIR IN ELOPEMENT

Chicago—(AP)—Albert J. Earling, 21, and Marjorie Downing, 22, members of two prominent families of Milwaukee,
who eloped and were married at Waukegan, Ill., Thursday were in Chicago on their honeymoon. Earling is the grandson of A. J. Farling, former president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad and a junior at Yale. Miss Downing is the daughter of A. C. Downing, president of the Downing Box company and a student at Dwyer college, Milwaukee.

FEDERAL NARCOTIC MEN ARREST 3 IN LOUISIANA

New Orleans—(AP)—Three men were arrested, a fleet of 11 automobiles seized and 25,000 pounds of pistol ammunition confiscated here Thursday by federal narcotic agents in the roundup of a ring with which undercover men had arranged for the purchase of $62,500 worth of narcotics.

SLAYER OF BOY IS SENTENCED TO LIFE TERM

Jury Finds Croarkin Guilty; Father Confesses He Murdered Children

Chicago—(AP)—Two men who slew
little children faced their tragic futures from cells Friday. One was Harold Croarkin—"Halie, the goof," his lawyer called him, found guilty Wednesday night of killing 5-year-old Walter Schmitt. He was sentenced to life imprisonment. The other was Walter Scholl, 33, jobless accountant and a former convict, who was arrested for slaying his two children by covering their faces with ether-soaked cloths.

Croarkin fought conviction, his lawyer, pleading insanity. Scholl confessed the crime of which he is charged and sobbed forth the hope that he may be sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Croarkin, by the jury's verdict, will be sent to the penitentiary at Joliet,
where he will become a fellow convict with two other Chicagoans already serving the same sentence for a similar crime. They are Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Dickie Loeb, who killed 13-year-old Bonnie Franks "for a thrill."

The Schmitt boy was killed by Croarkin, according to Croarkin's confession because of a fear that the boy would tell he had been mistreated. A blacksmith's hammer was the weapon, a blow on the head causing death. The left of a North Side riding academy was the place of the crime. "Croarkin luring the child there by promises of candy."

CHILD SLAYER'S MOTIVE

It was no such motive, however,
that led to the deaths of 5-year-old Virgian Scholl and her 5-year-old birth-er, Donald. Their father, in pouring out his story, told Chicago and Gary, Ind., police he killed his children because of despondency following his failure to meet with a girl named Margaret.

Scholl said he planned to kill himself, but could not bear the thought of leaving his children "to the mercies of strangers." Wednesday night he sobbed over the bodies of the children in a Gary undertaking establishment.

"I wanted to go with you," he moaned, addressing the small, silent forms.
"but it is better to let the law send me to you." Scholl said he told Virgil of his plan and that she said she was willing to die.

"She smiled," Scholl added, "and said, 'Daddy, I know you can't live without mama, and daddy, if you don't do it, I will be glad to die with you.'"

Margaret Scholl the second wife, whose expression of fear that something had happened, led police to discover the bodies in an abandoned Gary house Tuesday, visited Scholl at the Gary Jail. "I was very sad when they said 'He is insane,'" Mrs. Scholl told officials, "but I can't help loving him
just the same."

Scholl's parents, the Rev. and Mrs.
Charles Scholl of Pittsburgh, Pa., have taken charge of funeral arrangements.
The father is a retired Seventh Day adventist minister. Burial probably will be in the family plot at Milwaukee, the grand parents said.

SENATE DECIDES FROGS AREN'T WORTH SAVING

Madison—(AP)—Frogs are "just frogs" and not entitled to any especial consideration the Wisconsin state senate decided Thursday when it killed Senator Markham's bill which would provide protection for the "defenseless" animals.

The senate, however, expressed a kindly disposition when the vote was taken and only defeated the measure 18 to 15. This vote was taken following a plea from Senator Markham that he had forgotten one other "frog virtue" in his speech the day before, in defense of his bill.

"Think of the melody, the songs,
you will miss when all the frogs are gone," he added. He was answered by Senator Blanchard, Edgerton, who said he had not heard all the arguments due to the fact that he had been absent while "frogging around outside the senate chambers," but thought a longer open season might "induce frogs to laziness and thus cut down
not only in the quality but quantity of harmony."

Senator Markham has promised not to bring the measure up again.

BODY OF AGED KENOSHA WOMAN FOUND IN FIELD

Kenosha—(AP)—A county-wide search of four days for Mrs. Mary Snyder, 74, of Kenosha, ended late Wednesday when her body was recovered in a field on the Cooper road,
a mile and one half southwest of Kenosha. The body of the woman who has been missing since last Saturday was discovered by Carl Zander, a surveyor. There were no marks of violence and it is believed she died from the exhaustion after wandering
in an apparently dazed condition.

WINS PLEA

Fort Worth, Texas—Dr. Frederick
A. Cook, captioler serving a 14 year sentence in federal prison for misuse
of the mails, won a step in his effort for parole Thursday when federal Judge James C. Wilson granted a plea for probation.

Cook's application for parole now must go to President Coolidge for final action. Dr. Cook, head of the Producers Petroleum association with headquarters here, was tried with about a dozen other oil men at Fort Worth in 1923 and convicted on defraud charges in connection with oil promotion schemes. He spent about a year in jail at Fort Worth before being sent to the Leavenworth prison.

Dr. Cook has been in poor health and this was one of the reasons why
he applied for a parole.

VOTE 5 CONTRACTS FOR STREET PAVING AT COUNCIL MEETING

Property Owners Decide Type of Pavement to Be Placed on Their Streets

Five paving contracts were awarded,
action on two contracts was deferred pending further investigation by the common council Wednesday night. A sixth project will be completed under the direction of the board of public works. Contractors were given work aggregating $72,752.06. The project to be completed by the board of public works will cost approximately $2,000 and the cost of the other projects on which action was deferred will be about $70,500.

In letting the contracts the council referred to the vote taken during the past week of property owners living on streets to be paved of 311 taxpayers, 150 voted. Approximately half of the frontage on all streets to be paved or 18,098 feet was represented.

The first contract, paving E. College-ave, was awarded to E. P. Coughlin company of Chicago to lay "Warrenton" bitulithic asphalt at a cost of $21,829.50. Property owners representing 2,663.67 feet were for bitulithic; 102.32 feet for sheet asphalt; 130.58 for vibrolithic concrete; 201.28 for brick.

A petition presented by property owners on Wisconsin-ave urged the council to reduce the width of the pavement on that street from 37 to 28
feet, provided no county aid was available. Mayor Rulo said he agreed with the people on Wisconsin-ave.

"I do not believe they should be made to pay for the extra nine feet
of pavement when the only reason it is being laid is because the state highway 15 will be routed over that street," he said.

Several aldermen objected to reducing the width because wide streets
are necessary to care for heavy traffic.

COUNT SALM'S SUIT REPORTED SETTLED

Standard Oil Heiress to Get Custody of Child — Cash Payment for Austrian

New York—(AP)— Count Ludwig
Salm von Hoogsraeten's long drawn separation suit against an American heiress wife, the former Millicent
Rogers, Thursday appeared all over.
With the Austrian count and his countess both on the other side of the Atlantic and with trial of their case scheduled for resumption in supreme court here Monday, Salm's attorneys were authorized for the statement that it has been settled.

Reports agreed that the countess would receive custody of their 3-year-old son Peter Salm, born in New York, and that the count would get between $350,000 and $500,000 of the Standard oil fortune of his wife's father, Henry H. Rogers.

There were also reports that the countess would get a divorce in Paris.
Returning from abroad after interviewing both parties to the suit who are traveling in different parts of Europe, Herman Goodstein, attorney for the Count said:

"In a few days it will be a matter of record. The suit has been settled." Goodstein paid light of the reported money consideration for Salm. Some reports were that Goodstein would receive a fee of $100,000.
Attorneys for the countess and for her father were more uncommunicative.

OIL MAN HELD FOR CONTEMPT OF U. S. SENATE

Expect Appeal to Supreme Court to Keep Millionaire
Out of Prison

MAXIMUM TERM IS YEAR

Fine Ranges from $100 to $1,000; Minimum Sentence Is One Month

Washington—(AP)—Convicted by a jury of contempt of the senate, Harry F. Sinclair was determined Friday to fight his way to the highest tribunal in the land in an effort to keep out of jail.

The multi-millionaire oil operator was found guilty late Wednesday night on each of four counts in an indictment charging him with refusing to answer questions in the new historic senate
Teapot Dome oil investigation.

Unless he grants a motion for a new trial, Justice Hitz has no option
other than to impose both a jail sentence and a fine, a minimum of one month and $100 and a maximum of 12 months and $1,000.

Sentence probably will be passed next week. Meanwhile Sinclair remains at liberty under the $5,000 bond
he gave when the grand jury returned the indictment in the District of Columbia. Sinclair court almost three years ago.

SINCLAIR IS CALM

The man who rose from obscurity
to a place as one of the great oil operators of the country was calm as the foreman of the jury announced the verdict. He sat under his array of counsel and immediately after court adjourned was surrounded by a group of friends. Sinclair betrayed no emotion and did not even change his posi-

"The twelve men" impelled eleven days ago for the trial of the second of the same room in the courthouse
where, after an almost sleepless night 12 young men just three months ago finally agreed upon a verdict of not guilty in the conspiracy case against Albert B. Fall, former interior secretary and Edward L. Doheny, California oil operator.

CITY SEEKS WRIT STOPPING BACHMAN FROM PAYING TAX

Council Tells Lawyer to Get Order Holding Up Alleged Illegal Tax

The common council Wednesday night directed Albert H. Krugmeier, special attorney for the city, to start injunction proceedings against Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, to restrain the latter from paying $100,153.31 in taxes to the county. This sum the city alleges was levied illegally by the county.

Mr. Krugmeier appeared before Judge Edgar V. Werner Thursday morning to present his complaint, and ask for a restraining order.

The resolution proposing this action was introduced before the council by Alderman George Richard. It reads as follows:

"Whereas on March 2, 1927, it was resolved that the city treasurer, Fred E. Bachman, be directed not to make return to the county treasurer of Outagamie county, the sum of $100,153.31 in alleged county taxes collected by him of the citizens of Appleton, and Therefore, be it resolved by the common council of the city of Appleton that Albert H. Krugmeier, the special city attorney, be hereby directed to at once institute a proper action to restrain the said city treasurer from paying over said money to the county treasurer and the mayor and city clerk are hereby authorized and empowered to sign and verify all pleadings and papers on behalf of the city (necessary) in said action and to execute on behalf of the city any undertaking required by the court to restrain said payment."

GRANT APPLETON WOMAN DIVORCE FOR DESERTION

Bessie Chivington Decardo, Appleton, Thursday morning was granted a divorce from Charles Decardo by Judge Fred V. Heinemann in municipal court on grounds of desertion. The defendant did not appear in court. The plaintiff was allowed to resume her maiden name, Bessie Chivington. There are no children, and there was no property division. The couple was married Oct. 2, 1920, at Kaukauna. The wife was deserted Aug. 28, 1925, at Appleton, according to the complaint.

HARDWARE COMPANY LOSES $225 SUIT

Circuit Court Jury Finds for Defendant, but Denies Counterclaim

A circuit court jury Wednesday afternoon returned a verdict for the defendant in the suit of the Fox River Hardware company against John L. Hoh for $225.15, offering a justice court jury. A counterclaim by the defendant for $100 was not allowed.

The hardware company sued for the price of a furnace which it alleged it had sold to the defendant, and for which the defendant had not paid. Mr. Hoh alleged that he had bought the furnace with the understanding that it would be returned to the store without cost to the defendant if it failed to heat his home. The furnace failed, according to Mr. Hoh, despite efforts of the hardware company, and Mr. Hoh refused to accept it and ordered the store to remove it from his home.

The case had been tried in municipal court and was appealed by the plaintiff when a verdict was found for the defendant. The jury returned about 11:30 and returned at 12:45.

WOMAN INJURED WHEN CAR STRIKES RAILING

SCHMIEGE'S BILL TO HELP TEACHERS LOST IN ASSEMBLY

Lower House Indefinitely Postpones Measure Offered
by Appleton Man

Madison—(P)—While several of the important measures were postponed or laid over for further consideration in the assembly Wednesday, considerable business was transacted, the long calendar of the day previous being finished as well as the Wednesday schedule.

The house passed four of its own measures and concurred in a like number from the upper house, besides going through the formalities that precede passage or rejection, on nearly a score of other measures.

Complying with Assemblyman Reis' joint resolutions requiring investigation of the forestry and water power situation, Speaker John Eber of the assembly announced appointment of two investigating committees.

STUDY FORESTRY
The committee that will look into the Wisconsin forestry situation, including the status of fire prevention, conservation and forest location, will be composed of Assemblymen Reis, Froese, and Trembath. The water power committee is also headed by the author of the resolutions assisted by Assemblymen Thayer and Duncan.

Assemblyman Prescott's effort to again bring the "one buck" deer law before the assembly was defeated by a vote of 31 to 26. The Milwaukeean contended that the assembly should recall the amendment, changing the deer season, from the senate, because as at present constituted it provides that one of any kind of deer may be killed during the open season. He declared that he wished to present a substitute amendment, entirely closing the deer season for a long period and changing the law back to its former status whereby only one buck deer could be taken by each hunter.

KILL SCHMIEGE BILL

Meeting an hour earlier than usual, the assembly spent considerable time in the Schmiede tenure of teachers bill, finally postponing it indefinitely. The assembly bills passed, all of minor nature, altered the statutory provisions regarding organization of corporations and the filing of papers in certain cases of this nature; and related to the salaries of the judge, reporter, and clerk of the eastern judicial court Waukesha and the western branch of the same court.

The senate bills concurred in were: The interim committee bill introduced by Senator Boldt, eliminating the highway maps that formerly were sent out with licenses by the secretary of state.

The Casperson bill changing the ways of filing of bonds by county funds depositories.

The joint finance committee bill making two annual appropriations to the state historical society, in the following denominations: Administration, $6,750; annually; Repair and maintenance, $3,125 annually; Books, furniture, and furnishings $10,700 annually; and one appropriation of $4,000 for stacks and repair of books and magazines.

A bill amending provisions of the forest-fire prevention law and adding several sections to the law regarding the starting and fighting of forest fires and fire prevention methods and setting penalties for convictions under the act.

The Budlong bill repealing the indeterminate sentence law, drew considerable debate before it was indefinitely postponed. The vote on this measure was 38-31. Assemblyman Budlong made a long address in favor of the repeal, saying that it enabled imported law violators to escape on short sentences in Wisconsin.

Assemblyman Trembath, who was recently admitted to the bar after passing the state examination, led the opposition to the repeal of the law, contending: hardened criminals are not sentenced under this law and are therefore not benefited by its provisions. He also held that as the law

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

(Readers of The Post-Crescent are invited to send their bridge problems to the Bridge Editor of The Post-Crescent and they will be forwarded to Mr. Work, author of these bridge articles. Mr. Work will answer every letter.)

The pointer for today is: When answering the information double of a dependable partner, bid a four-card major in preference to a five-card minor, even when the minor is the stronger suit.

In the hand given yesterday, South bid one No Trump, West doubled, North passed, and East held:

Unless the answering hand contains a long Major and a long Minor, the double is a request for the longest suit and to fail to comply with that request is apt to be most unfortunate, but in the case of a four-card Major, no matter how weak, and a five-card Minor no matter how strong, the probabilities are that the Major will be more apt to produce game than the Minor. The reasons given in connection with the four strong Clubs and the four weak Spades apply here, except of course there is a distinctly greater chance for game at Clubs with a five-card suit, than in yesterday's example there was for game in Clubs with a four-card suit. It is conceded that the flint reaction of those who are advised to bid in this way is distinctly hostile. It seems to be contrary to all Bridge theories, as well as to all theories of common sense, to select a suit which appears to be ridiculously had only been in effect for two years it had not yet been given a complete trial.

After debating the Schmiede bill making teachers' jobs secure after their third year of service in one district, and after putting forward on the calendar for the second time the Ingalls bill repealing the personal property tax, the assembly ordered fifteen bills engrossed, ordered one measure laid over and referred two others back to committees for amendment.

weak, in preference to a suit a card longer and stronger. Appreciating that the advice given today will be received by many with incredulity and by some, with positive hostility, I would not offer it had it not been that the experience of years has conclusively proven that the point of today's pointer is aimed in the winning direction, and that following it in the majority of cases is bound to produce the most satisfactory result; but this is only the case when the double of the partner can be depended upon to be 100 per cent sound.

Tomorrow's hand, in which the bidding is supposed to be the same as today's, is as follows:

East's holding Sp: S-x-x-x Ht. x: x-x-x-x Cl: A-Q-10-9-x-x

INSTALL ELECTRIC MOTORS IN BRIDGE

Electric motors were installed in the Oneida-st draw bridge Wednesday, according to R. M. Hackworthy, street commissioner. The motors were overhauled during winter and are in good condition. The bridge also was repaired during the past two weeks.

Last year navigation on the river was tied up several times when the bridge failed to function. Navigation opens officially at 6 o'clock Monday morning, and the bridge will be in good working order by that time. All bridge tenders from last year have been reengaged and will start work Monday morning. Their salary is $90 a month. James Vander Heyden and Fred Cavers will have charge of the Oneida-st bridge. Andrew Grishaber and Benjamin Kline will be at the Lave-st. bridge, and Albert Elias and Otto Ecke at John-st bridge.

A Popular Style—
An Unusual Price

THERE is a "dare" in the price of this suite for anyone who wants the very finest quality of Hepplewhite-styled Furniture for less than they expect to pay for it. "The Oxford" by Berkey and Gay, realizes the supremely graceful lines and proportions of this master's finest work—which harmonizes so well with the simplicity of modern rooms. Vivacity adds to the charm of the suite. Wonderfully figured croch walnut, butt walnut and maple burl, generously employed, are so contrasted that an unforgettable tonal background is obtained. The nut-brown finish, carefully hand-rubbed, deepens this effect.

The high-lighting, the gems of maple burl onlay, the choice little triumphs of hand-carving add inimitable touches to this suite, which the price, to our mind, makes almost irresistible.

STARTING TO BREAK UP

Neenah—The ice in lake Winnebago has started to break up. Several fishing shanties left on the ice cannot be taken off and probably will be broken up by the crumpling ice. It was the intention of the committee on parks and public buildings of the city council to move the bathhouse to the south side of the waterworks lot but inadequate sewer connection made a change necessary.

DESERT SANDS MAY PROVIDE POTASH SUPPLY FOR AMERICA

U. S. FARMERS LOOK TO NEW MEXICO AND TEXAS FOR MATERIAL

Discovery May Release Country from Dependency on Europe for Fertilizer

Washington—America may be released from its dependency upon Europe for its annual potash supply if the potash fields located in Texas and New Mexico prove as valuable as investigators believe them to be.

The discovery of the minerals was made by the Geological Survey working under the auspices of the Department of Interior and Commerce. Congress had recently appropriated $100,000 for these departments to carry on potash explorations.

The existence of these beds, from 750 to 1,800 feet below the surface, was discovered by drilling of an oil prospecting company, assisted by Geological Survey officials.

The beds are thick enough for a mining average of about 12.5 per cent strength. The average run-of-the-mine materials at the Strassfurt, Germany, beds have a potash content of only 8 to 10 per cent.

Ten beds in all have been found. They range between 11 inches and 5 feet in thickness.

SOUGHT SINCE 1915
"It must not be imagined that this is simply a lucky strike made at random," says Dr. G. R. Mansfield of the Geological Survey. "We have believed for years that if paying potash deposits were ever to be found in this country the most likely place to seek them would be the Panhandle region of Texas and the adjacent corner of New Mexico, and we have actually been hunting for them since 1915."

"Of course, we cannot tell from a single core drilling how extensive the new beds are, but we do know definitely that working quantities of rich potash minerals exist at this place, and our previous effort indicates that potash deposits of some sort exist in many places."

The new potash field is well served by railroads. Two lines run through it and three others have branches into it at various points. Galveston is the nearest salt water port.

Geological Survey officials believe that for certain types of soil the minerals as they came from the shaft would need only grating to make them satisfactory fertilizers.

More or less rock salt occurs in between the layers of potash minerals, but this can easily be picked out by the cheapest of labor or by machinery.

The potash imports from Europe now amount to about $15,000,000 annually. A small amount is produced at Seaford, California, the bed of a dried-up sea, but this barely meets 10 per cent of the requirements.

MORE PROFITS IN CULLING SCRUBS

Authorities Claim 25 Per Cent of Badger Cows Should Be Sent to Stockyards

Madison—Dairy authorities claim that fully 25 per cent of Wisconsin's dairy cows could be sent to the stockyards and the dairy profits of the state would be increased.

The average Wisconsin dairy cow produces 1,975 pounds of milk and 190 pounds of butterfat in a year, according to reports issued by A. J. Cramer, in charge of cow testing associations in the state.

Dairy specialists say that it is useless for a farmer to keep cows that will not produce around 6,000 pounds of milk and more than 200 pounds of fat in a year.

Cattle with lower production, it is claimed, cannot produce to a profit and only add to the costs in feeding and labor to rob higher production cattle of their profitable yield.

"The experience of farmers in the cow testing associations has shown that a closely culled dairy herd is much more profitable than numbers to dairy prosperity."

"While Wisconsin leads in dairying and farm products, it is in the position for improvement in the state average and margin of profit," says Cramer. "Eliminate the poorer dairy cow and Wisconsin would have few farm financial worries."

NOTHING NEW ABOUT SHIPPING BABY CHICKS

Madison—(P)—Baby chicks riding in card board compartments over Wisconsin railroads are experiencing the same sensation that ancestors of another age enjoyed.

This is the belief of J. G. Halpin, of the poultry department at the University of Wisconsin, who declared that Chinese poultrymen thousands of years ago shipped incubated chicks to various destinations, although means of transportation were crude.

"When the chickens are shipped," Prof. Halpin said, "they should be at their destination within forty-eight hours after hatching. After that time the chicks may eat anything they can get hold of and in that way become diseased."

"Shortly after incubation, the baby chicks are placed in card board boxes and placed on trains. The trips do not affect the newly hatched and only the time limit is to be taken into consideration. Good train service is most valuable to a chick to travel several hundred miles before the 48-hour 'deadline' is reached."

In connection with the incubating work in other states of the nation, he said it was approaching a year 'round basis, but as for Wisconsin's work was carried on chiefly in March, April and May.

Care of the chicks after being received was also stressed by Prof. Halpin. "Everyone that purchases day-old chicks should remember that all young animals need careful attention during the first few days. Also that a few minutes of neglect may do injury that cannot be repaired."

Baumgartner Brothers Making Record As Breeders Of Purebred Guernsey Cows

DEATRICE'S MAYROSE SECRET OF WOODLAND, PRESENT SIRE OF THE BAUMGARTNER BROTHERS' HERD OF PUREBRED GUERNSEY CATTLE. HIS FIRST TWO TESTED DAUGHTERS AVERAGED 609 POUNDS OF BUTTERFAT AS 2-YEAR-OLDS. ONE WAS A THIRD PRIZE COW AT THE 1926 MINNESOTA STATE FAIR.

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Wrightstown—Among the successful breeders of purebred Guernsey cattle of the vicinity are the Baumgartner brothers. The conditions that makes them big breeders include the size of their herd, the high class of the animals in the herd, the production records, the length of time the herd has been in process of development, and the care with which the herd is culled and the speed with which undesirable animals are sent to the block.

Henry Baumgartner, the father of the present owners of the herd, started in the dairy business 35 years ago with nothing better than a herd of mixed grades. By culling as best he could with the conveniences at hand and by using purebred sires, Mr. Baumgartner, a few years after his start, and produced a herd from which the step to a purebred herd was a very short one. One of the reasons he gave his sons twenty years ago for taking the last step was that inasmuch as he had spent a large amount of money in building a monster barn with stables in the basement, he was justified in sending more money in the elimination of the last of the grade from his farm.

As a starter in carrying out this plan, Mr. Baumgartner purchased three purebred Guernsey heifers and a herd sire from James Deane, an Oakfield breeder, 20 years ago. All of these were exceptional animals, but the outstanding animal of the lot was Hero's Princess. She is really the foundation animal of the present herd.

Mr. Baumgartner worked at the production of the present herd for 17 years when the business was taken over by his sons.

The herd now consists of 65 animals among which are 35 head of young stock and 30 cows. The present herd sire is Deatrice's Mayrose Secret of Woodland whose first two tested daughters record averaged 609 pounds of butterfat as 2-year-olds and one was third prize cow at the 1926 Minnesota state fair.

The production records of a few of the cows in the Baumgartner herd follow: Bessie of Grand View, 15 years of age, 13,745.7 pounds of milk, $27.72 pounds of butterfat. This cow is a daughter of Hero's Princess, one of the first three calves bought.

Babbette, 5 years old, daughter of Bessie of Grand View, 1,101.6 pounds of milk and 64.46 pounds of butterfat, as a two year old.

Lady Pearl of Grand View, 8 years, 12,248.3 pounds of milk and 611.3 pounds of butterfat.

Grandvul Delania, 7 years old, 9,807.3 pounds of milk, 599.84 pounds of butterfat as a three year old.

Butter Belle of Grandvul, 10 years, 8,412.50 pounds of milk and 590.19 pounds of butterfat.

Grandvul Fanny, 4 years, 9,322.2 pounds of milk and 452.8 pounds of butterfat as a two year old.

Grandvul Isabelle, 3 years, 9,651.7 pounds of milk and 473.3 pounds of butterfat.

Official testing is always in progress in the Baumgartner stables and four cows are now undergoing test. As official testing is a paying activity in a purebred herd, Baumgartner brothers intend to keep it up.

The brothers have a show herd of 13 cattle that are to be seen each year at the Brown-co fair. At this fair last year, their cattle took most of the premiums offered, 16 in all. Among these were seven firsts, champion on brace calf, six months old, six seconds and three thirds. At this fair at the time, there were three Guernsey show herd entered in competition.

Last year the Baumgartner brothers sold 12 herd sires and six culled cows to the block. They sell no culled cows for dairy purposes. They found early in their career that it pays to sell customers only the best grade of animals. For the past six years, their herd has been on the accredited list of the state and the United States.

The Baumgartners supply Wrightstown and Hickory Grove sanctuaries with Guernsey milk and separate the remainder of their product.

To feed their herd the Baumgartners raise 35 acres of alfalfa, 25 acres of corn, 20 acres of barley, 60 acres of oats, 2 acres of flax, 10 acres red clover and as pasture 10 acres of sweet clover and 25 acres of woodland pasture.

The bill to which there were no amendment it was approaching one o'clock and the assembly decided to leave the twelve bills until today, starting the session at 9 instead of 10 a. m.

The bill by A. J. Miller raising the fees of jurors from $1.00 to $8.00 only met with opposition, when it came up for passage and when an amendment was made cutting the increase to $5, the bill was sent back for engrossment with the amendment.

The lower house refused concurrence in two appropriation bills, following the recommendations of the committee's recommendations in the upper house. They had been passed by the senate. They were:

Appropriating $5,000 annually for the next two years to the Wisconsin Agricultural Experimentation association.

Appropriating $9,000 annually for the next two years to the state horticultural society.

Indefinite postponement was recommended by the judiciary committee on the bill by Assemblyman Huber appropriating small sums to three men for legal services in defending themselves in the suit of three men for legal services in defending themselves in the suit of the state against them as the result of a bank case in which they were bondsmen, but the bill was ordered engrossed after a long debate.

There was also a contest before the bill by Assemblyman J. D. Williams laid over with an amendment until the next calendar day. This bill would prohibit the county highway commissioner or committee from hiring any county supervisor as an employee. A move to indefinitely postpone the measure was defeated.

The "music" bill, providing that that subject must be taught in all district schools of the state, was ordered engrossed by a vote of 46 to 34, after some opposition to it had become apparent.

RIVER IS YIELDING GOOD FARM LANDS

Farmer Profits by Unusual Bit of Engineering to Check Stream

St. Marys, Kan.—The vandalism of a roving river which covered many acres of valuable farm land has been brought to an end by forcing the water to retreat and leave the fields more fertile than they were before the river had passed over them.

H. P. Kellner, who operates a farm near here, has been obliged to leave 250 acres of land which was a part of the River Kaw's bed and plant the land to crops.

A six-foot fill, composed of soil that Kellner points out, formerly was the crown of the farmlands lying along the banks of the Kaw river upstream. This year was laid by flood waters on top of what were sandbars on the Kellner farm a season ago.

This unusual accomplishment has been made possible by steel jetties which are placed along the side of the river to catch driftwood and force the river to deposit silt and sediment along the banks.

The jetties, invented and used by Kellner, consists of three 16-foot steel angles, bolted at the intersection to form a double tripod, having six points, all bound together with heavy wire.

Rows of these jetties, all lined by heavy steel cables and anchored firmly in the bank, are placed at right angles with the river about every 50 feet.

When the river swells by a flood of water, force is wasted and water is carried and deposited on Kellner's farm. As the land fills up the jetties are moved farther into the river bed.

The original farm had an extent of 250 acres, but when Kellner bought it eight years ago the water from the river had already washed away 110 acres and was rapidly cutting into the remaining 120.

Kellner immediately set up his jetties and was able to retrieve the 110 acres of land and force the river back to its original size. He has now tripled the size of his farm from the time he purchased it.

RIVER FORCED BACK
In some places the river has been narrowed and forced back until the accreted land between the former bank and the present shoreline measures one-half mile wide.

Flood agricultural land has been built above the water level this year in places where the river was deep enough before the Kansas floods to cover a man on horseback.

Rye has been planted on this rich loam and has sprouted in make winter pasture for cattle. In the spring corn will be planted and next fall Kellner expects to have raised 100 bushels of grain.

The value that Kellner has been able to add to his farm is shown by the great increase in the price of the land. Eight years ago he purchased the farm for $4,000 and only recently he refused an offer to sell for $28,000.

BRUSEWITZ CATTLE MAKE FINE RECORD IN TESTING CLUB

Guernseys Show Average of 34.9 Pounds Butterfat, 795 Pounds Milk in Retest

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Black Creek—According to the report of Stuart Lambie, the official tester of the Cleeve-Black Creek Cow Testing association, the high herd for February in the association is owned by A. G. Brusewitz and son, breeders of purebred Guernsey cattle and proprietors of the Sunny Valley and Orchard Grove Guernsey farms, route 3. "This herd," said Mr. Lambie, "was retested and showed an average of 795 pounds of milk and 34.9 pounds of butterfat. The test was 4.38 per cent."

According to Leverage Brusewitz, the production record of the part of the herd of A. G. Brusewitz and son that is kept on his premises—a few of the best cows in that section—(for March is as follows: Violet of Orchard Grove, 6 years old, 1,487 pounds of milk, 71.8 pounds of butterfat, test 4.8, returns $88.72.

No. 2, 8 years old, 1,041 pounds of milk, 49.9 pounds of butterfat, test 4.8 returns, $51.25.

No. 5, 1,231 pounds of milk, 45 pounds of butterfat, test 3.9, returns, $49.39.

Oliver of Orchard Grove, purebred, 1,007 pounds of milk, 42.8 pounds of butterfat, test 4, returns $54.57.

Constance of Orchard Grove, purebred, 725 pounds of milk, 40.6 pounds of butterfat, test 5.6, returns, $38.45.

No. 12, 1,215 pounds of milk, 48.6 pounds of butterfat, test 4, returns, $38.44.

The Brusewitz herd leads the herds of the association for March. It will be the third time in succession," says Leverage Brusewitz, one of the proprietors.

Ten cows are milking in the section of the herd on the Sunny Valley Farm. On both farm, there are 70 head of cattle including 39 cows, 30 of which are now milking.

STARTED 25 YEARS AGO
The older member of the dairy firm of Brusewitz and Son, started raising Guernsey grades 25 years ago. The herd sire at the present time is Dairy Maid's Golden Noble, 9 years of age, purchased of Elton V. Morgan, Cato.

This production record on the farm's side is 708.61 pounds of fat and on his side's side, 748.7 pounds of fat.

The larger number of the animals of the Brusewitz herd are a mixture of Glenwood, Langwater and Yerkawright strain. The herd is fed alfalfa, corn silage and a grain ration consisting of mixture in the following proportion: corn gluten, 200 pounds; hominy, 300 pounds; ground oats, 100 pounds and oil meal, 100 pounds.

From their herd, the owners sell from $1,400 to $1,500 worth of cows and heifer calves each year. They also sell sweet cream and feed the skim milk to calves and hogs. They raise an average of 15 calves and 60 Duroc hogs each year and have 35 fattening hogs on hand now. They sold a large bunch of hogs in December.

A part of the official report of the tester, Mr. Lambie, on the entire herd of A. G. Brusewitz and Son, for February is as follows:

Violet, purebred, 6 years, 1,230 pounds of milk, 60 pounds of butterfat, test 4.8.

Oliver, purebred, 5 years, 923 pounds of milk, 43.1 pounds of butterfat, test 4.1.

No. 2, 8 years old, grade, 655 pounds of milk, 41 pounds of butterfat, test 4.1.

No. 12, 10 years old, purebred, 1,155 pounds of milk, 49.7 pounds of butterfat, test 4.2.

No. 36, grade, 10 years, 1,053 pounds of milk, 46 pounds of butterfat, test 4.4.

No. 20, 7 years old, purebred, 1,050 pounds of milk, 43 pounds of butterfat, test 4.1.

CROPS SURVIVE WINTER
Alfalfa, clovers, rye, winter wheat and pastures have survived the winter and are looking fine, according to Walter H. Wickett, route 4. The fields are turning green, the stands are good and all conditions are perfect thus far for bumper crops.

The value that Kellner has been able to add to his farm is shown by the great increase in the price of the land. Eight years ago he purchased the farm for $4,000 and only recently he refused an offer to sell for $28,000.

ANOTHER WAR THREAT REMOVED

One of the thorns in the sensitive side of Germany has been the occupation of the Saar valley by French troops. The Saar all the way through has been a troublesome phase of the Versailles treaty. Occupation of the Rhineland was another distasteful situation to Germany, and there was the Ruhr incident also which at the time seemed to hopelessly widen the breach between the two countries. The adoption of the Locarno treaties provided for withdrawal of the French from the Rhineland before the date stipulated in the peace treaty, and the question of recalling them from the Saar valley was presented to the League of Nations council now in session at Geneva. Foreign Minister Stresemann made a strong plea for the removal of the small force now guarding the railways and lines of communication in the Saar. After a thorough discussion of the matter, it was agreed that this should be done and that a railway defense corps of eight hundred men, made up of soldiers of different nations, should take its place. This brought much satisfaction to Germany for it represents another important concession in the modification of the peace treaty. Gradually the severities of the treaty are being toned down and its inequities adjusted. The Saar issue has now disappeared, and in 1935 a plebiscite will be held under which the people of the valley will vote to decide whether they shall become a part of Germany or of France.

The value of the League for the peaceful composing of differences between nations and the improvement of their relations is being attested constantly. Its handling of post-war problems has in the main been extraordinarily successful, and has done a great deal to bring about a friendly feeling among the former belligerents and the nations of Europe generally. This, in the face of criticism that the League is fundamentally wrong and cannot be made to function. Irrespective of its organic nature, it is proving to the world every day the advantage of counsel and discussion around a common table. Left to themselves, Germany and France probably would never have reached the understanding embodied by the Locarno treaties, and the Saar and Rhineland friction would have remained a friction until the bitter end. The world, including the United States, must eventually give its approval to an organization which is doing so much to wipe out international discord and to promote open and frank consideration of international problems, thereby minimizing the possibilities of war.

A UNIFORM ARSON LAW

The Fire Marshal association of North America has found an active ally in the National board of Fire Underwriters in its campaign for the enactment of a model arson law. The board has commended this campaign as a constructive effort, calling for the support of the general public as well as of every one in the fire insurance business.

In most of the states the existing arson statutes are based on the old common law version and cover only the wilful burning of the habitation of another, which takes into account only the element of malice. These laws are the relics of an age when the idea of burning for profit or "burning to defraud" was practically unknown. Fire marshals and other fire officials have found it desirable to have the crime of arson clearly defined so that no legal technicalities may be used to frustrate the ends of justice and thus the model arson measure has been drawn up and has already been introduced in the legislatures of eleven states: Alabama, North Carolina, Tennessee, West Virginia, Ohio, Arkansas, Iowa, Indiana, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Maine.

The model act covers the burning of buildings of all kinds for gain or other motive as well as the burning of personal property. It also provides penalties for those who may aid in such burning of property for any reason. The measure is believed to be one that will stand the extreme test in any court and adequately protect the general public from promiscuous arson. The legislatures of all states should cooperate in the passage of this law. If all the fire officials are so solidly behind it, there is every good reason to believe that it is an essential step.

FASCISM AND THE POPE

Pope Pius has for the second time taken the occasion to severely criticize the Fascist regime in Italy under Premier Mussolini and his most recent criticism is in the form of an objection to the basic principle of Fascism, which is that of "Everything and everybody in the state, for the state."

Pope Pius contends that this is a false premise, that "man is not and never can be the means. He is the end—not, of course, the ultimate, supreme end, which is God—but in the creation man is really the end and center about which everything is organized. Therefore neither the concepts of race or those of the state or nation should supersede that of man as the end."

Pope Pius has thus voiced what most thinking people outside of Italy have been evolving for some time. No one can deny that Mussolini and his Black Shirts have done a great work but the consensus of opinion now is that he has overreached himself and that it is only a question of time when he will face a disastrous crisis.

Mussolini defies the state. After all, the state is created by man and not man by the state. In fact, the state is but a convenient way men have of living together and insuring reasonable peace, protection and prosperity in the pursuit of their endeavors and happiness.

Fascism takes little account of the individual, however. "Everything must be for the state, for Italy. The personal equation is almost completely disregarded. It is a form of Socialistic experiment. The mailed fist is the sceptre of power and Mussolini wields it with a firm hand. Mussolini is the man of the hour. He has captured the imagination of the Italian people, but their loyalty can still turn to hatred if they are pushed too far.

OLD MASTERS

When she comes home again! A thousand ways I fashion, to myself, the tenderness Of my glad welcome; I shall tremble—yes; And touch her, as when first in the old days I touched her girlish hand, nor dared upraise Mine eyes, such was my faint heart's sweet distress; Then silence and the perfume of her dress: The room will seem a little less a home. Cloy eyesight—soul-sight, even—for a space: And tears—yes; and the ache here in the throat. To know that I will deserve the place Her arms make for me; and the sobbing note I stay with kisses, ere the tearful face Again is hidden in the old embrace.

—James Whitcomb Riley: "When She Comes Home."

FREEDOM FOR THE LADIES

Mme. Lenne says Russia is the only country in the world where women really are emancipated. Maybe the men open the cans for them over there. . . . Doesn't she realize that every woman in America today has her own Diet? . . . An eastern writer says some of the finest dishes used to be cooked in paper bags. Now they're carried home in paper bags and ready to eat when the bag's opened. . . . An Indiana man is suing for divorce because his wife cooked only one meal for him in their two weeks of married life. Maybe he's better off than he thinks. . . . Two Chicago women plead that the drudgery of housekeeping be abolished. There's a fortune in it, for the man who invents a can opener that runs by motor.

THE NEWS HAS WIT

While the Texas legislature is adopting the mocking bird as the official state warbler (shades of Crockett!) Chicago is deciding to buy an armored car in which to fight crime. Sufficient for the wit of the day is the news thereof. . . . Kansas retains her chivalrous glory when the supreme court decides that a man should not beat a woman even if she is trying to take his seat in a street car. . . . Mr. Ruth is paid $70,000 a year, while Mr. Coolidge gets slightly more, $75,000. But then Mr. Coolidge puts in a longer season, you know. . . . Mr. Coolidge, by the way, is seeking a cool place in the west for his vacation. All he has to do is knock at any farmhouse door.

Men are better than women at the question-answer game that is so popular these days, says a Chicago professor. But just ask some father what to do when the baby swallows a button.

For the next perfect figure contest we nominate Andy Mellon. He pays off 4% per cent loans with 3% per cent notes.

Now that a whist club is suing a bridge author, charging he stole their rules, we're going out and buying a rubber ball and some jacks.

Another of those headlines you never see: TENNESSEANS PROPOSE DARROW FOR PRESIDENT.

The dollar is worth 60 cents compared to its 1914 value, says a statistician. So Chaplin can save $100,000 if he pays Latin promptly.

The United States will have 49,000,000 autos by 1930, an engineer estimates. Then we who are left will stay indoors.

THE SUICIDE WAVE MYTH

According to the papers we are forever on the crest of a "crime wave." Who there isn't much news of importance this crime wave idea is useful. Police authorities, nerve specialists, lecturers, psychologists, sociologists and the like, always eager for publicity, seldom decline to be "interviewed" about the causes of the wave.

Now we are having a "suicide wave." Most of it is the bunk. The rest of it is excellent free advertising for the same old police, lecturers, nerve specialists, lecturers, psychologists and sociologists. Because some college students have had the world of themselves lately, these "authorities" are explaining in the newspapers how come. Some of 'em glibly assure us that the suicidal impulse grows out of the youth's failure to "readjust" his thought, the new philosophy and so on which he learns in college being so different and so much at variance with the simple old ideas he has been brought up to cherish and believe. This is the worst sort of a maledictory mind. There are truly too many plain nuts clattering up college and university life.

Some of the "authorities" tell us the parents are to blame—faulty home training. Boy has been allowed to have his own way, selfish, unable to see the fairness of the other fellow's right or arguments, and when he gets away from home where he can't have everything his own way he just naturally takes the easiest way out. This is a mean, forcible way of saying that the boy comes of tainted or degenerate stock. The parents may seem respectable, refined and all that, but when we really know the family history as a family doctor knows it, then the suicide becomes only one of the manifestations of degeneracy. I have known families in mind, and indeed I don't believe any family can cast stones at any other family as far as degeneracy may be concerned.

The "suicide wave" is equally mythical or imaginary. We must bear in mind that not only number, but proportionately far greater number of students enter college today than in times past, and consequently a higher suicide rate must be expected. We should also remember that the most degenerate class, the newly wealthy, the too prosperous middle class, now contributes the greater part of the student body to the colleges and universities of this country, and hence there is an undesirable element in college life, young men and young women, who have no ambition or ideals but are in college only because the crowd goes there. Among these unfortunate suicides occur, which is better than the criminal escapades to which their abnormal ideas lead.

In 1904 there were 853 suicides in New York city, one-third of which were by carbolic acid. Then a new law prohibiting the sale of carbolic acid in solution stronger than 5 per cent (one in 20) went into effect. In 1907 there were 555 suicides, not one of which was due to carbolic acid. So it would seem that we, the people, have some control over suicide. But we are not very conscious of our responsibility. We still permit the sales of pure carbolic acid in some communities.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Our Dog and the Neighbor's

We have a dog, and he is well. A neighbor bought a dog three weeks ago, it got sick, a veterinarian took it to his hospital and there he said it had rabies and reported it to the health authorities. The health officer presently called on us, saying inasmuch as our dog had played with the neighbor's dog it would have to be sent to the veterinary hospital for observation and treatment, cost $18, also our boy aged 5 years had handled the neighbor's dog too, so he must have to have treatment for 14 days, although he was not bitten, also my wife would have to have treatment, also she handled the dog too. All this cost $100 for each person. $50 for the serum and $50 for administration. The hospital veterinarian said our dog remained perfectly well. Is this necessary, in your opinion? (M. S. V.)

Answer—No. If the dog with rabies bit no one, there is no sense in all this. It was enough to keep your dog under observation for two weeks.

Ask Your Doctor

I am troubled with itching piles and I understand you have some information that will help me. . . . Answer—I am glad to send you advice about piles (hemorrhoids), but I do not know what your trouble may be "itching piles" may mean one thing or another. I advise you to submit the trouble to your physician.

HIS DAY IN THE SUN

HASKIN WRITES TODAY

ON—

Washington, D. C. — The acts of Congress, several actions by the Department of State, and a general attitude of friendly support by all branches of the Federal Government in recent months, have changed the Government's attitude toward the American Legion pilgrimage to Paris next September from one of serious doubt and actual, though unofficial opposition, to one of encouragement and support. The fear that trouble would result from this expedition of probably 30,000 service men and their families was very general at the time they were announced by the French since we have heard no more of outbreaks regarding the French debt to the United States.

Congress took favorable notice of the pilgrimage which marks the tenth anniversary of American entrance into the World War. One law was passed permitting government employees who are Legion members to save their 1925 vacation time and apply it to their trip to Paris in 1927.

Another act of Congress remits the Federal tax on the steamship tickets of the Legion travelers.

The State Department has handled negotiations, in cooperation with Legion officials, which have eliminated many of the passport fees necessary in visiting various countries in Europe.

The friendly interest of the French Foreign Office and of our own State Department will give the expedition a semi-official character and other countries will seek to make the visit of the American service men a pleasant one.

When the project was discussed last summer, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and other members of the American Debt Commission did not view it with great favor. Nothing has happened in the debt situation since that time, but the unfriendly feelings notable at that time have disappeared by the mere passage of time, and Washington officials do not foresee any great trouble arising from the Legion trip.

AS TO DEBT CANCELLATION
There is evidence that the French veterans will endeavor to convert the American visitors to the idea of debt cancellation, but it will be a decidedly peaceful and friendly propaganda, carried on with enthusiastic hospitality as the keynote, and from Legion sources the word is going quietly about the Legion officials will be very well satisfied if no resolutions whatever are adopted dealing with the French debt, are presented to the Legion Convention at Paris.

Thus the trip, for which reservations are being made in great numbers with the Legion headquarters at Indianapolis, promise to be a sight-seeing and pilgrimage to American cemeteries and battle fields, but devoid of international complications. General Pershing and the American Battle Monuments Commission, of which he is chairman, are cooperating with the Legion plans, and it is probable that one or more of the permanent American memorials in France will be dedicated by the Legion tourists. General Pershing plans to accompany the tour.

The Battle Monuments Commission is proceeding quietly with a very complete program of memorial structures on the scenes of the principal American engagements of the World War. In the first place the Commission has provided for chapels at each of the American cemeteries overseas, and architects' plans have been perfected for them. They will be non-sectarian, but arranged for purposes of religious and patriotic services, and the larger ones will have museum rooms. The cemeteries, of which there are six in France, one in Belgium, and one in England, are in charge of the Graves Registration Service of the Army, but the chapels, permanent masonry walls, and other structural improvements are being handled by the Battle Monuments Commission. They are gradually being made into that which will probably be the finest cemeteries to be found anywhere.

The Commission's chief task is the erection of the memorials on the American battlefields. In order that American civic and state pride and our wealth and fondness for monumental structures may not result in placing too many monuments on our battlefields, a tendency which would offend our less wealthy allies and which would create an undue appearance of boastfulness, the Commission has limited strictly memorial activities by public or private groups, and will erect, for the American Government, central and official memorials at points marking outstanding American achievements at arms.

Thus the greatest of American battlefields, the Meuse-Argonne area, will be marked by a single fine memorial monument at Montfaucon, the highest hill in that area. The St. Mihiel area will also have an American monument, the Marne salient likewise, and other major operations such as those on the Somme, at Cantigny, and in Flanders.

VETERANS WILL BE WELCOMED
These plans are well in hand, and the Commission will welcome the occasion of the return of thousands of the soldiers of 1917-18 to these battlefields, where they can study the plans for the memorials and see the work already under way.

A complete new mapping of the American battle areas overseas has been one of the first tasks of the Battle Monuments Commission, designed to determine with precision exactly what ground was fought over by each American division, and also by each regiment and company.

These have been matters of infinite discussion since the excitement of battle has passed. Battle maps are not always precisely followed, as circumstances dictate changes in the course of operations, and in after years various units are given to claiming that this, that, or the other enemy line or fortification was captured by them, while rival units set up the same claim. The Commission will have a great deal of expert advice on these points when the doughboys go back over the old ground next September, and can see exactly where this road, that farmhouse, or the other hill is located in relation to other features of the terrain.

While the plans for the Legion tour are developing with every promise of great success, the organization has been in an amusing controversy with a few newspapers and magazines which insist upon predicting that the trip will be given over to liquor drinking. Officers of the Legion are indignant at this published slur, and point out that while soldiers in war time are usually willing to get what stimulants they can, the Legionnaires to-day are men averaging above thirty years of age, are sober and industrious, citizens, and for the most part are taking wives and families on this excursion to France.

That this pilgrimage to the battlefields and the cemeteries where their comrades are buried should be described as a prospective drinking orgy has aroused bitter resentment. The Legionnaires declare they are going abroad in the same spirit as other American tourists, to which is added the occasion of commemorating the tenth anniversary of their entrance into the war, and the opportunity of visiting the battlefields and the graves of their fallen comrades. They expect to have a good time, but they are not embarking on an expedition for the violation of the Eighteenth Amendment.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Death strikes GARRET FOLSON while bathing at Ocean Town, N. J. After being perforce brought to a doctor, the body is brought to the Hotel Marjaca, where an inquiry is started.

Folsom's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, MRS. HELEN BARNABY, and CARMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folsom, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the copper king.

Then the startling announcement is made that Folsom had been stabbed to death in the water. ROSS his valet, is questioned, as are Barron and his wife, but no light is shed on the mystery.

ANASTASIA FOLSON, recent widow of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is established that the death weapon was a pichag, an Oriental knife, and that it and its scabbard had been purchased on the boardwalk.

Some suspicion attaches to one GRAYDON SEARS, who is a collector of curious bladed weapons, and Anastasia asks TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to try to solve the murder.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

"That's all right, then," said Anastasia Folsom to Riggs. "I'll waste no more time than I must. First of all, have you the slightest idea of any individual whom you consider responsible for my brother's death?"

"No, I haven't, except to say that any one near him in the ocean that morning might be the murderer."

"But we can't have to court all the bathers in the ocean at that time. We must get at it some other way."

"And perhaps the logical way is through the motive."

"Now that's a sensible remark. Of course we must work through the motive. And that's just what I can't conceive of. How could any one want to kill my brother? Why, Garret was the best man in the world. The finest character, the kindest, dearest brother."

"Now, now, dear lady. I make allowances for the devotion of an affectionate sister, but you mustn't idealize the man."

"But it's true. Every one who knew him will tell you the same. He was a remarkable man—a man of a thousand."

Titus Riggs had heard much about Garret Folsom since the unfortunate man's death, and most of what he had heard was greatly at variance with his sister's opinions. Yet he felt a hesitancy about disturbing her ideals too rudely.

So he only said: "It stands to reason, Miss Folsom, that somebody must have looked upon your brother with a less kindly eye than your own. Unless Mr. Folsom was killed by mistake."

"Do you think that probable?"

"Frankly I don't. Though it is possible. But if we're to find out the truth we can't depend on imaginings or vague suppositions. We must get down to facts. To true evidence and proved testimony."

"That's just it," and Anastasia's face brightened. "But, so far as I can see, we have no evidence and no testimony of any account."

"That's pretty nearly true. First of all, what about the man, Ross? Is he absolutely unsuspicious?"

"Absolutely. I wish, in one way, I could suspect Ross. I mean it would be a logical way to look. But he can't possibly be at fault. He is utterly respectable and quiet-lived; he has always been devoted to Garret's well-being, and he is in all respects, the ideal servant, with no underhand ways or ulterior motives."

"Does he gain anything from Mr. Folsom's will?"

"There is a bequest to him of a thousand dollars. But that would never tempt him to murder his master. For I happen to know Ross has a good-sized bank account of his own. My brother gave him a generous salary, and paid all his living expenses, even to clothes and a small motor car."

"Live and let live is my motto," says Peterson of Buffalo. "Drugs sold all over America sell PETERSON'S OINTMENT for 35 cents a large box and I say to these druggists, if anyone buys my ointment for any of the diseases or ailments for which I recommend it and are not benefited, give them their money back."

"I've got a safe full of thankful letters testifying to the mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment for old and running sores, eczema, salt rheum, ulcers, sore feet, broken breast, itching scalp, chafing and blind, itching and bleeding piles."

T. G. Rolleston, of 563 Loraine Street, Detroit, writes: "I suffered with piles for over 25 years—nothing did me any good. After my fourth box of Peterson's Ointment I am nearly cured. It is the greatest ointment I ever heard of."

years abroad. He had been back from that trip only a short time."

"Then, for all we know, this tragedy may be the result of some episode or trouble that happened while he was abroad."

"It will may be. But that seems to render it hopeless, doesn't it?" and Anastasia looked deeply discouraged.

"Oh, maybe not. That may help to simplify matters. Perhaps Ross can tell us something."

"No, I've asked him. If he knew anything he'd tell. But I'm hoping you can pin the crime on to someone in America—someone down here."

"At any rate we must try to do so. There's the dagger, you know. That ought to be a clue."

"I doubt it. I know how these auctions down here are run. I mean auction sales of unimportant goods. If that had been a really valuable Oriental curio, of course, a record would have been made of the buyer and the price and all that. But there are thousands of cheap items sold at auction that are not recorded, and no reason why they should be."

"All true enough. And with the ocean to clean it, there's no chance of any finger prints on the knife. No, it doesn't seem hopeful as a clue. Yet the first principle of detection is investigation of the weapon used."

"Well, it's been investigated. I'm not unreasonable. Mr. Riggs I don't expect you to work miracles. But I do want you to use your common sense, which is more than some detectives do, and work with me and see if we can't succeed."

"I'll do that. I accept your proposition, Miss Folsom, and we'll leave your very generous offer as to salary open for the time being. When I prove to be of some real use to you then we can talk of remuneration. I know, as well as you do, that it seems absurd for a man to try detective work without any training or experience of any sort. But you can also employ skilled detectives, and if I fall down on the job they may be able to carry on."

"I shan't call in any one else until I see how you get on. But of course, if the police continue the search I shall be interested. Also the hotel detective here is rather a clever sort. And rest assured I shall not be idle myself. I may not be able to do a man's work, but there are kinds of detection where a woman's intuition and quiet cleverness may be of service."

"That is certainly so. Now, first of all, Miss Folsom, I want a look in to Mr. Folsom's luggage and papers."

Folsom's nephew arrives on the scene, and more is learned about the strange dolls in the dead man's room. Read the next chapter.

EXPECT 6,000 AT KIWANIS MEETING

Dr. E. L. Bolton and F. P. Catlin Will Be Appleton Delegates

At least 6,000 visitors and delegates are expected at the eleventh annual convention of Kiwanis International at Memphis, Tenn., from June 6 to 9, according to information received by Dr. E. L. Bolton, president of the local club and one of the delegates to the meeting. The other delegate is F. P. Catlin.

Hotel arrangements for the club's representatives have been made by Mr. Catlin, secretary of the local club, who has been in touch with Kiwanis convention headquarters in Memphis.

The Memphis auditorium which has been the meeting place of the south's largest conventions will be used for the Kiwanis sessions. This big auditorium seats many thousands and will adequately handle the crowds.

The broadcasting of the "All Kiwanis Night" program on Monday evening, June 6, from Memphis will be an international event. All clubs in the United States and Canada will meet in their respective cities at the same time as the opening hour session in Memphis. This simultaneous occasion will be for the expression of the united good will and friendship existing between the United States and Canada for over a century.

The convention program is also being arranged to include features of the Old South. "Memphis Night" will depict for the Kiwanian visitors the scenes of the southland of many years ago.

Arrangements are being made for the local delegates to meet with other Kiwanians from this part of the country to make the trip. Special trains from different parts of the country will meet in the bigger railway center cities and then travel in sections to Memphis. Thousands will motor to the convention city.

Mr. Weigle was to take charge of the program as he did here last year, but other engagements made it necessary to change his plan.

Love Letters Of The Great

AS COMPILED BY DIANA RICE

DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH
 DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH 1650-1722
 It was this English nobleman who blocked the carefully laid plans of Louis XIV to capture the city of Vienna, and won for himself the royal favor of Queen Anne and many handsome properties. Marlborough at one time pushed his armies almost to the gates of Paris, but while the campaign lasted for nearly two years the French dug themselves into an impregnable position, which stopped the English advance, and finally ended in the Peace of Utrecht.

The wife of the Duke had not idle while her distinguished husband was in the field and had attained a position at home which was almost as powerful as that of Queen Anne. Though brilliant and imperious, the Duchess was far from amiable and eventually alienated many of the friends who might have been useful to her husband's career. But despite her mischievous qualities and uncontrollable temper, Marlborough always adored her and writes to her again and again, "I can have no happiness until I am with you." Like the Countess of Shrewsbury, the Duchess lived to a ripe old age, displeased and displeasing, at variance with her relatives, resentful and vindictive.

THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH TO THE DUCHESS
 Hague, April 23, 1706.
 I am uneasy at not having heard from you since my being in this country; and the wind continuing in the east, I am afraid I shall not have the satisfaction of receiving any letter from my dearest soul before I leave this place, which will be the next week. I am yet in uncertainty where I shall serve this summer, for Cadogan is not yet returned from Hanover; but by a letter I have received from the King of Denmark, and that I send by this post to Lord Treasurer, I see that I must not depend upon any of the Danish troops; so that if Hanover should persist in doing the same, which these people should consent to what I propose, it will be in our power to find troops necessary, which gives me, as you may imagine, a good deal of vexation. I hope my next will let you know the certainty of what I shall be able to do.

My dearest soul, my desire of being with you is so great that I am not able to express my impatience I am in to have this campaign over. I pray God it may be so happy that there may be no more occasion of my coming, but that I may ever stay with you, my dearest.

 Ramillies, Monday, May 24, 11 o'clock, 1706.
 I did not tell my dearest soul the design I had of engaging the enemy, if possible, to a battle, fearing the consequence for me might make her uneasy; but I can now give her the satisfaction of letting her know that on Sunday last we fought, and that God Almighty has been pleased to give us a victory. I must leave the particulars to this bearer, Colonel Richelieu, who having been on horseback all Sunday, and after the battle marching all night, my head aches to that degree that it is very uneasy to me to write. Poor Bingley, holding my stirrup for me and helping me on horseback, was killed. I am told he leaves his wife and mother in a poor condition. I can't write to any of my children, so you will let them know I am well, and that I desire they will thank God for preserving me. And pray give my duty to the Queen, and let her know the truth of my heart, that the greatest pleasure I have in the success is, that it may be a great service to her affairs; for I am sincere, sensible of all her goodness to me and mine. Pray believe me when I assure you that I love you more than I can express.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS—

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

"Everybody gone to bed, dear?" Bob Hathaway asked when he arrived at the Myrtle Street house at half past ten that Sunday night.

"Dad's on the job at the Pruitt Wholesale Grocery, Junior's gone to church with Fay Allen—I'm expecting them to be married any day now—and Joy's just dropped off to sleep, thank heaven." Faith sighed wearily. "The poor little lad has been enjoying her invalidism today. I've read her at least sixteen fairy stories and helped her work four cross-word puzzles. Tell me what you found out about old Phil, the beggar. I thought you'd never come."

Bob kissed her eyelids very gently before he answered. "Surely to be so late, darling. But I found it surprisingly hard to get any real dope on the old boy. He wasn't at his usual corner at Lincoln Park and Kelly, the old news dealer, said he hadn't shown up all day. Kelly says he used to live with his daughter down in Peck Tree Hollow—our beautifully named but odorous slum—but Kelly didn't know the daughter's name. In fact, he doesn't even know Phil's last name."

"And he's known the beggar for five years?" Faith demanded incredulously.

"Nothing so odd about that," Bob answered. "You see, honey, old Kelly thinks Phil is beneath him socially. Kelly has a business—a legitimate business—that he's proud of, and although Phil carries a box of cheap lead pencils and a few packages of stale chewing gum, on the pretense of earning his living as a peddler, he's really a beggar. It seems, too, that there's a sort of feud between Kelly and Phil, that Kelly didn't like to talk about, but which has been in existence for more than a year. I gathered that the two old boys don't speak to each other any more."

"But Kelly took your dollar to give to Phil," Faith protested.

"Of course he did, but Kelly wouldn't ever turn that dollar over to the beggar, did you?" Bob laughed. "At any rate, Kelly admitted to me that he is about as fond of Phil, the beggar, as he is of ex-convicts and swindlers. In a way, I'm glad he feels that way, for he won't be likely to blab to Phil that someone has been taking an extraordinary interest in him."

"I went down to Peck Tree Hollow, and searched for hours for a trace of the beggar. One evil-eyed old hag did admit that a crippled beggar had once lived there with his married daughter, but she either did not know or would not give the daughter's name. And at the house she pointed out to me as the cripple's former domicile I found a stolid old fellow, a couple who'd never heard of the beggar or his daughter. So there the trail ends, for the moment anyway. He'll probably show up at his old stand tomorrow at the park and I can get a good look at him, at any rate."

"If he makes a pretense of selling pencils and chewing gum he's got to have a license, hasn't he?" Faith asked thoughtfully. "Couldn't you trace him that way?"

Bob's blue eyes regarded her with fond admiration. "Darned clever, these 'Chineses,' he grinned at her. "There's only one drawback. We don't know his last name, and it's unlikely that he takes out a license merely as 'Phil the beggar.'"

"Don't laugh at me," Faith begged. "Don't you think it's absolutely ridiculous for me to suggest that he might have been hired to kill Mr. Clung, hired by someone who had a grudge against him but who would not risk his own life to get even?"

"Kelly says he is all crippled up with rheumatism and is sick half the time, so it does seem a little far-fetched, except for one thing. Those footprints do measure almost exactly the same," Bob answered. "I haven't given up Phil as a possible suspect by any means."

TOMORROW: Faith turns sleuth and learns a little more about Phil, the beggar. (Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Coelran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

POOR TOM, who'd stole the tiny pig was spunked until he danced a jig. Of course the Tinies knew that he had done a thing quite wrong. Said Scouty, who had watched the lad, "To steal is always very bad."

And then they all were startled as they heard a monstrous gong.

"Say, what was that?" wee Coppy said. "That noise went ringing through my head. It sounded like a fire bell, but I don't see any smoke."

And then the noise, stopped, after while, and Coppy added, with a smile, "Oh, well, I guess whatever it was, the pesky thing is broke."

But he was wrong as he could be all shortly everyone could see that all the noise came from a gong that hung up by a shed. "Oh that's the nunging eating bell," say, Tinies, wouldn't it be swell if Tommy's dad would ask us in so we could all be fed?"

And then a man came into sight and called to Scouty Tinymite, "Say if you tots are hungry, I will bring you out some lunch. You bet we are," wee Scouty said, "and if you will, come right ahead. Be sure and bring enough, because we're really quite a bunch."

In just about a minute more the Tinymites let out a roar of real appreciation, as the man passed food around. "Twas Tom's own dad who served the crowd, and 'course it made them feel real proud to think that he would feed them. What a good friend they had found."

"This is the pie," the good man said, "that my son stole. Just go ahead and eat until you've had your fill. There's no harm in it." And then he said, "Poor Tom was beat, and went a-running down the street. That's what he got for stealing pigs. I hope you understand."

(The Tinymites see the cow jump over the moon in the next story.)

SELF-HONESTY COUNTS MOST!

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THERE is an honesty that is not matter of dollars and cents, or a matter even of telling the truth.

It is honesty of self.

I often think of an old song in "Home," if any of you remember that opera. Two "thieves" sing it and it goes something like this:

"Things are seldom what they seem, Skimmed milk masquerades as cream, Jackdaws strut in peacock's feathers"—and so on. I forget the rest.

But it is as true today as it was then—truer indeed, in an age when material things mean too much and real things mean too little.

The house with the Queen Anne front and the Mary Ann back, the fine car at the curbstone, while the mattresses on the children's beds are hard and uncomfortable. The fur coat with theater tickets in the pocket and insufficient food on the table. Expenditure is entirely a personal affair. It is not the world's business. If one wishes to save at the airport and waste at the luncheonette, (except about the children, I shall always reserve the right there to criticize.) But it is not honesty to one's self. That is the point. I would make it. It is like cheating one's self at solitaire. There they say—"Is the world's meanest man."

There is camouflage of place for instance. That is important. Why do people try to pretend that they are different? Why conceal their birthplace and the manner to which they were born?

The true gentleman or gentlewoman who has sealed the ladder and has made good as we call it, will not conceal the identity of his forebears.

Why? Because he wants to be honest with himself.

"TEMPORARY WHITE HOUSE" IS NOT FILLED WITH MODERN FURNITURE EVERYTHING IN WHITE HOUSE PRO TEM IS THERE FOR A PURPOSE

BY GENEVIEVE HENDRICKS

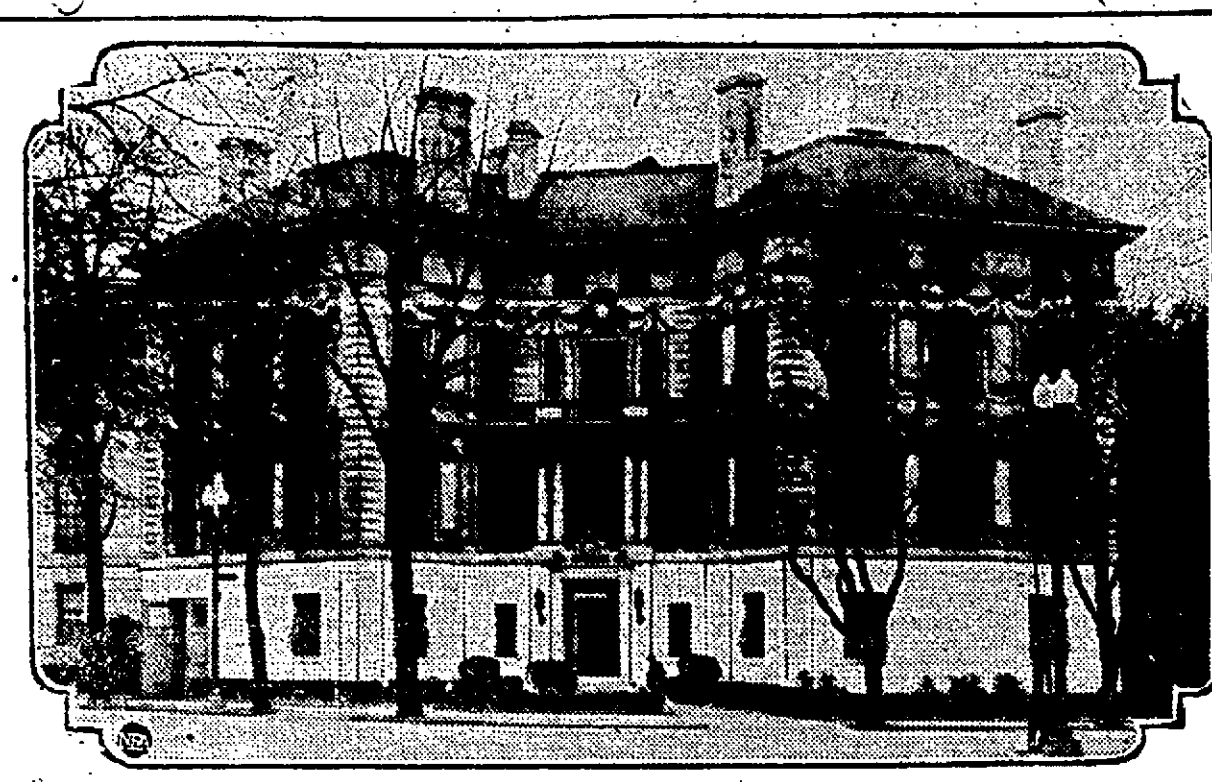

WASHINGTON, D. C. Miracles happen and dreams come true, even in this 20th century. For years I admired the Patterson house as the handsomest of Washington's large residences and often sat on a bench in Dupont Circle so that I might study its proportions and architectural details. I always hoped against hope that some day I might pass by at the happy moment when the main door would be open so that I might have a glimpse of the hall within.

During the last two years, I have passed through this same door hundreds and hundreds of times, for fate gave me the opportunity not only of seeing the interior, but of knowing the house from cellar to attic in the minutest detail.

Nor has there been any disillusionment upon passing frequently through the beautiful marble hall, but I do not set so nicely in the marble facade. For this house, designed by an artist and perfect in its proportions and details, is always a source of joy.

It has been my pleasant task for the last two years not to return this house to its original owner put in it when it was built in 1890. Luckily, it has never been in the hands of a person with poor taste, for the present owner, Mrs. Elmer Schlesinger, has the rare good taste of her mother, Mrs. J. P. Patterson, who carried on the original plans of her mother. Like her mother, she is not a faddist and has never been lured away from the classical and the beautiful in design by striking or exotic modern pieces of furniture or materials. There have therefore been no fads that have had to be thrown out.

To work in such a house is an opportunity that comes seldom to any decorator. Here only the best in design and quality may enter. There are no compromises. I have a very precious sense of permanence in the work which I do in this house. I have used only those materials and pieces of furniture which would fit in with the original scheme.

Several months ago Washington was agog with consternation as to where President and Mrs. Coolidge would live during their absence from the White House. It was known that several large and very beautiful places had been offered. Knowing the Patterson house as I do, I was, of course, most anxious that it be selected. In fact, I could hardly believe that they would go elsewhere, for this house, more than any of the others, expresses quiet elegance without ostentation or display. It is quite in keeping with the characters of the President and Mrs. Coolidge that they chose this classical abode instead of one of the larger, more lavish residences.

A mistaken impression has gone forth that the Patterson home was redecorated solely because the President and Mrs. Coolidge were taking it over as their temporary residence. What actually happened was that the redecoration, which has extended over a period of two years, has been hurried to its conclusion at this time. Unlike most great houses, it is kept in perfect condition.

A study of the furnishings of the "temporary White House" would give a good lesson in thrift, for it exemplifies in every way the value of good buying.

The old French and Italian furniture selected by the original owner is today as lovely as it was when it first entered the house. Much of it is genuine antique, the work of painstaking artists of the 18th and early 19th centuries. Also, it has greatly

RED AND GREEN COLORED SHOES OFFER NEW NOTE

Bright colored kid shoes, after seasons of oblivion occasioned by their overpopularity during the reign of King Tut dress designs, are again being worn by the fashionable. The colored shoe of today is usually worn to give contrast to the entire black costume. Or it may harmonize in color with the accessories such as hat, corsage or handbag. Emerald green and red are colors most often noted, although bright medium blue is occasionally seen. Where the afternoon costume is all black lace or black velvet, the red or green kid slipper is worn with sheer black or gun metal hosiery. Usually the shoe exactly matches the color of the turban or handbag. Black evening gowns sometimes use colored satin slippers, although the colored shoe is most effective in kid, to my mind.

BLACK HEELS
 Gummet stockings are gaining in popularity daily. They come in two shades, light and dark. The lighter gummet, which is really a grayish black, is most flattering to the leg, since it looks like a very costly sheer black stocking. Black heels are used on most gummet stockings.

Printed fringes, usually with dark backgrounds and colorful floral designs, trim the skirts of some of the most effective evening frocks. A silver cloth gown of straight lines has a deep border of silver fringe patterned with large pinkish roses and green leaves extending from knee line to hem. Entire fringe frocks are listed among gowns of elaborate evening type. In one instance, a round white necked crepe gown has four-inch tiers of white crystal bead fringe extending from neck to hip line. From the hip line to the hem tiers of black crystal are used. Numerous straight lined gowns of silk crepe have fringe outlining the neck line, often sufficiently deep to give the bolero effects with matching fringe repeated from knee to hem. Other or more fringed fringes are used on many frocks.

CLOVELEAF LAPELS
 Boyish suits with double-breasted jackets using tailored lapels and slash pockets are favorites of the younger element for spring. Black or navy blue are the favored colors. Sweaters with horizontal stripes are often worn instead of blouses. Jersey, crepe and silk crepes are favored sweater materials.

CUTTING MEN'S HAIR WILL AGAIN BECOME AN ART

Indianapolis—(AP)—A haircut was just a haircut until woman invaded the barber shop and demanded modes in scissors-wielding.

Now man is to have his choice of haircut styles just as definite as those from which woman chooses. Henceforth, under plans of the journeymen barbers' union, his periodic trip to the barber is to be a scene with Dame Fashion.

The union will educate male patrons to have their hair cut to a style adaptable to head and facial contour. Later, says Jacob Fisher, president, a board of fashion arbiters may be established to select the styles created.

In the Victorian days the barber's artistic urge found outlet in the trimming of beards to conform with the patron's personality, through the grooming of goatees and sideburns. The barren yowl ended that. But again, after many years, man's hair-cutting is to be an art as well as a trade.

Not with the public? Yes! But first because he knows he must first be honest with himself.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Grape fruit sections, cereal, thin cream, crisp broiled bacon, soft cooked eggs, bran muffins, milk coffee.

LUNCHEON—Clear soup, croutons, herring salad, rye bread, rice pudding, milk tea.

DINNER—Stuffed pork tenderloin, twice baked potatoes, buttered spinach with hard cooked eggs, button radishes and young onions, dried apple pudding, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Although children under school age may not partake of the luncheon salad they will find a nutritious and sufficiently hearty meal in the soup with croutons, rye bread and lettuce sandwiches, milk and pudding.

The herring salad is so much worth while for adults, that the rule follows:

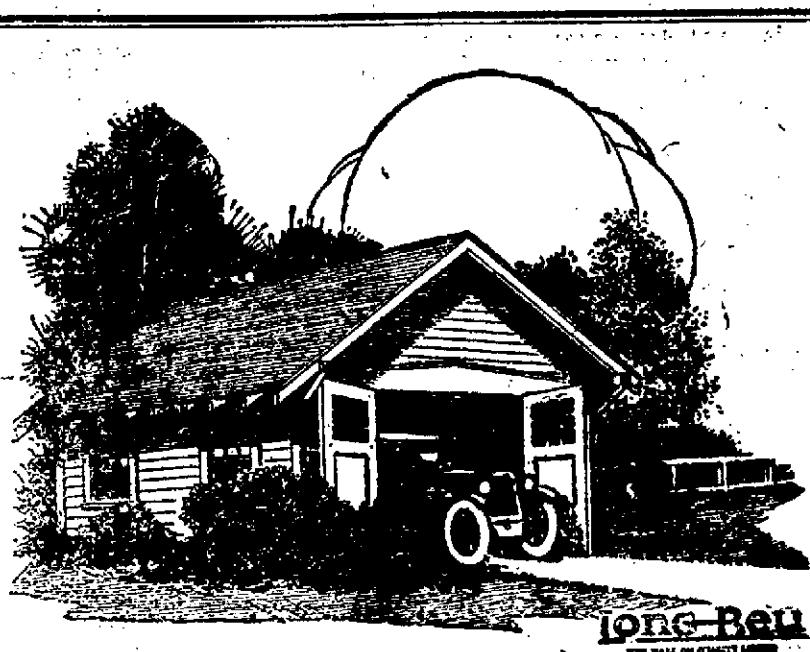

HERRING SALAD
 One cup flaked salt herring, 1 cup diced boiled potatoes, 1/2 cup minced celery, 3 hard cooked eggs, French dressing, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 3 canned pimientos, 1/3 cup heavy cream, lettuce.

Four boiling water over fish and let stand fifteen minutes. Drain and separate into flakes. The potatoes should be cut in 1/3 inch cubes. Combine fish, potatoes, celery and finely chopped eggs. Pour over French dressing, cover and let stand in a cool place for 1 hour. Rub pimientos through a sieve. With cream until firm, add pimientos and mix with mayonnaise. Add this dressing to fish mixture and pile on a bed of crisp lettuce. Serve very cold.

Women with red hair usually keep their face complexion longer than those with darker hair.

IF KIDNEYS ACT
BAD TAKE SALTSSays Backache Often Means
You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well known authority. An excess of such acids overwork the kidneys, their effort to filter out of your blood, and they become sur of paralyzation and log-ey. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach is sour, tongue is coated with fibrin, and the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with fibrin, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

The milk haulers detour through Drephals and Gatesburg to reach the milk plant at Nichols.

NOTED SINGER WILL BE GUEST OF LEGION HERE NEXT MONTH

Executive Committee Votes
to Entertain Schumann-Heink at Dinner

Once Johnston post of the American Legion will hold an informal dinner and reception for Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink when she presents a program here on April 8 it was decided at a meeting of the post executive committee Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. A committee will be appointed soon by Commander Harvey Priebe to arrange for the dinner. Madame Schumann-Heink regards the Legionnaires as "her boys" and she will dedicate a selection to the veterans in her program here. She expressed a desire to meet as many Legionnaires as possible. The dinner will be arranged to give her this opportunity.

W. A. Hines, Stevens Point, vice commander of the state department of the Legion also will be a guest of honor at the dinner. He was born in the same province in Austria as the famous singer and she often held him on her knee when he was a child. Action on a committee to handle the Appleton chapter of the Fox River Valley League this summer was postponed but reports on the state league pin meet were read. It was reported that 480 games had been rolled over the weekend and as many are expected this weekend. The meet is progressing satisfactorily so far. Several cities still are applying for places in the tourney, but as the entry lists are closed and the dates all set, none will be allowed to enter, it was reported.

Plans for a home talent show were abandoned on the report of Peter Goert, chairman of the finance ways and means committee. Mr. Goert said that it would be impossible to secure a place to present the production and recommended that the post sponsor a motion picture at a local theatre instead. This will be done in the near future, the executives decided.

AN ATTENTIVE AUDIENCE

BUCK JONES PLAYS THE LEAD IN "THE FLYING HORSEMAN" TO BE SHOWN FRIDAY AND SATURDAY AT THE NEW BIJOU THEATRE.

STAGE And SCREEN

STOLEN KISS STARTS ACTION
Packed with humorous scenes, beautifully produced and delightfully played by a notable cast of screen players, "Nobody's Widow" is a De Mille-Metropolitan picture of the finest grade starring Leatrice Joy, who will have her premier showing at Appleton Fischers theatre on Friday, Saturday and Sunday next. The featured players in Miss Joy's support are Charles Ray, Phyllis Haver and David Butler. The supporting cast includes Dot Farley, Fritz Ridgeway and Charles West. Donald Crisp was the director.

One of the most successful comedies on the American stage in recent years was "Nobody's Widow," written by Avery Hopwood. It is an admirable vehicle for Leatrice Joy. When she discovers her husband embracing a pretty Parisienne an hour after their marriage, she hastily returns to New York where she confides her troubles to a woman friend. The two decide that Roxanna Smith must be a "widow" and Betty, her friend, arranges for a meeting of Roxanna with the "Duke of Morobay," the intention being to make her husband jealous. Fancy Roxanna's amazement when the pseudo duke proves to be her own husband.

Now follow a series of interesting development that will cause most fans to rock with laughter, but the tale is finally adjusted to the satisfaction of all concerned. Mr. Ray is said to present an excellent portrayal and to thoroughly disprove the statement that he is a "one type" actor. The play was adapted by Clara Beranger and Douglas S. Doty.

Tanlac Stops 7 Years' Suffering

George H. Heughens saw health slipping away. Tanlac built him back to old time vigor.

"I've been through seven trying years," writes George H. Heughens, 69, at 1311 Johns Ave., Superior, Wis.

"I suffered intensely during those years. My lightest meal caused bloating, pain and palpitation. I couldn't digest anything, and gave up all hope of being well again. To make matters worse, my nerves became unstrung and I grew steadily weaker. What I went through can hardly be imagined.

"Dizzy spells became more frequent and restful sleep deserted me. Tanlac gave me my first real relief; it quickly took hold of my troubles and stopped them. Soon my appetite came back; the bloating stopped and digestion was normal. Now, at 69, I'm in fine shape, eat, sleep and digest my food normally, and gaining strength steadily. To anyone run down as I was, I recommend Tanlac, with confidence."

Tanlac is nature's own remedy, made from herbs, roots and barks. Start on Tanlac today. Your druggist has it. Over 52 million bottles sold.

an excellent cast. Gladys McConnell has the leading feminine role.

Buck, cast as Mark Winton, is en route to the sleepy little town of Los Santos, when he encounters Bert Ridgely abusing one of eight boys, the sons of Happy Joe. Happy Joe is a jolly old derelict who has a shack on the ranch of Colonel Savary. Ridgely in love with June, Colonel Savary's daughter, takes a beating at the hands of Buck. He leaves swearing vengeance.

How he compromises Buck, falsely accuses him of murder, and tries to prevent Silver Buck winning the Comanche Handicap lays the foundation for one of the most absorbing screen stories seen in recent months.

In the cast with Buck is Harvey Clark, inimitable comedian, and many other screen favorites. The list includes Bruce Covington, Walter C. Percival, Hank Mann, Vester Pass, Joseph Rickson and eight of the liveliest youngsters in pictures.

Seven letters were awarded, six to cagers, and one to the student manager.

The five seniors who closed their blue athletic careers this winter are Captain Vern Grove, Menasha, and ex-capt. Harold Briesse, Appleton, guards; Verle Clark, Westfield, and Walter Heideman, Appleton, forwards; Roy Sund, Neenah, forward and center.

The other cagers to letters were awarded to Hillman and Manager Karl Kocher, Medford. Two freshmen who played in varsity games after they were eligible at the semester also were awarded their 1928 numerals and sweaters for making the varsity. They are Irving Jackola, Appleton, and John Slavik, Elgin, Ill.

William Bent, Eagle River, a sophomore, won his A.A.A. award for his work with the varsity.

Freshman sweaters and numerals for play with the regular frosh squad were awarded to Allen Hoffman, West Allis; Cecil Gilbert, Ironwood, Mich.; D. B. Ellis, Elgin, Ill.; Harold Pierce, Menasha; Urban Rummel, Menasha; Robert Rassmussen, Ashippun; Gilbert St. Mitchell, Kaukauna. Numerals alone were awarded to Robert Valentine, Escanaba, Mich.; Fay Posson, Kaukauna; Arthur Parker, Neenah; Arnold Maas, Tilleda; Franklin Amice, Elgin, Ill.

Of the new-grads Briesse and Sund have played three years of regular ball and the former also played in several first-team games as a frosh after he became eligible at the semester. Sund played his sophomore year at center, and then was out of school before playing the last two years. Clark played the last two years and was a sub as a sophomore beside being a regular frosh player and Grove played two years as a regular and alternated at guard as a soph after a year as regular frosh center.

Capt-elect Hillman played guard in frosh basketball and end in frosh football and this year, his first eligibility for the varsity, he played a regular end job at football and guard and center at basketball, starting on defense at the jump at center and in caging at least one needed long basket game, breaking into a lineup of two and three-years vets, all seniors. He graduated from Appleton high school in 1924 after three years at end for the Orange and two at center and guard in basketball. He also heaved the javelin.

Briesse has been named all-state guard and forward for three years and as a soph was named second-team guard of the Midwest conference. Heideman the other Appleton boy, was an all-state second team selection for two years.

FRIDAY GAMES

West Green Bay at East.
Sheboygan at Oshkosh.
Marquette at Manitowoc.

Final games in the Fox River Valley cage conference will be played Friday evening when all but Fond du Lac and Appleton, the two leading teams, clash. The games will not affect the standings of the leaders, who are put of reach of the other six squads, and the three teams which rank next in line are favorites to win.

West Green Bay is a favorite over East even at the East side gym, and Sheboygan and Manitowoc are heavy favorites over Oshkosh and Marquette, even though the former game is played at Oshkosh. If either Oshkosh or Marquette win the other five will have a lone last place for the season. If both lose, as the dope indicates, the notch will be tied between them as 't is now.

Manitowoc must win to clinch third as a Sheboygan victory will mean a tie for that position should the Ships Brown.

VETERAN STILL STARS

St. Petersburg — To watch Dave Hancock, Boston Braves' manager and shortstop, play rings around the rest of his infield in spring training, one would never surmise that he is almost 35 years of age. He thinks he will be able to continue to play until he reaches the 40 mark.

NO HOME-TOWNERS

St. Petersburg — Not a single member of the Boston Braves hails from Boston proper and only two of the players, both rookies, come from the suburbs of Boston, catcher Hogan from Somerville and infielder Gautreau from Cambridge.

10 ft. Soda Fountain and Back Bar almost like new, $225 takes it. Other furnishings for ice cream parlor, cheap. Phone or call Bill Keltz, 12 Cor.

Burling Grimes, former Brooklyn spitball twirler, took his slippery slide into the Giants box for the first time Wednesday against Boston Braves at St. Petersburg, but failed to add to the impressive string of Giant victories. The Braves won, 4 to 3. Hornsby got three hits.

Babe Herman was an inglorious singleheader in Brooklyn's 12-1 defeat by St. Louis Browns at Clearwater. The young first sacker booted two of the Robins six errors.

Boston Red Sox are to enjoy a let up for a few days. Summer heat has served to get the athletes down pretty fine. At St. Petersburg, Fla., the Braves pitchers reversed their recent form and the team, showing an all around improvement, held the Giants to three runs, winning by a margin of one.

Tarpon Springs, Fla.—Billy Mullen, who will start at third base for the St. Louis Browns, says he intends to prove that Ty Cobb was a poor picker when he released him because he couldn't hit. He batted .337 for Toronto last season and says he will hit .200 or better in the American if played regularly.

RIVAL FOR RUTH

Tarpon Springs — The St. Louis Browns have unearthed a rival for Babe Ruth in First Baseman Guy Sturdy, who looks the part of his name. He is better than six feet, weighs about 180 pounds and last season cracked out 49 home runs for Tulsa in the Western League. He bats and throws left-handed.

NEW LONDON TO OPEN DRIVE FOR SOLDIER MEMORIAL, MARCH 28

Hope to Place Order During First Week in April and Rush Project Through

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—Monday and Tuesday, March 28 and 29 will see the formal launching of the Memorial drive, for the raising of funds for the monument to be erected through the combined efforts of the Norris-Spencer post of the American Legion at this city and the veterans of the Spanish-American and Civil wars. The amount to be spent upon the purchase price of the monument is not known, as much depends upon the sum that can be raised. Every business house and every resident will be canvassed and school children will be given opportunities to contribute and to aid in creating enthusiasm in the project.

If the order is placed during the first week in April with a monument company the design of the monument will be completed and the monument be unveiled on Memorial day. As yet no location has been definitely decided upon. Members of the legion bugle and drum corps will parade the streets on the evenings of March 28 and 29, and the drive, carried on by members of the legion and auxiliary, will be launched on the morning of March 28. Uniforms will be inspected by a local tailor on Thursday evening and a list made of necessary alterations to be made. It is thought that the uniforms, recently bought from Appleton on approval, will be purchased.

SCHNEIDER TO SPEAK
At a joint meeting of the legion and auxiliary next Tuesday evening Col. Frank Schneider of Neenah, will speak. His subject will be "The American Legion and the project in the minds of the post and unit members—that of the monument. A short musical program featuring local talent will be arranged by a general committee. It is yet to be decided upon whether a two day homecoming celebration will be given on July 4 and 5. Legionnaires differ in their opinions regarding a two day celebration, but expect that some fitting observance will be made on the national birthday.

CIVIC LEAGUE PLANS TO REPLACE SHRUBBERY

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—City park plants and shrubs which were killed during the winter will be replaced this spring, according to plans made at the meeting of the Civic Improvement league this week. The work will be done at the request of Mayor Wendlandt and will be in charge of the out-door art committee of the league. A membership drive will be staged in the near future with Mrs. Carrie Hooper and Mrs. D. Egan acting as chairman. The league voted $13 toward the expense of having the library building thoroughly cleaned this spring, and a committee consisting of Mrs. Carrie Hooper and Mrs. William Beedle was appointed to meet with the library board in regard to this matter. This committee also will interview the library board in regard to redecorating the library hall this season.

NO WORK TO BE DONE ON COUNTY LINE ROAD

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—Only three projects suggested in the meeting held last autumn in the Outagamie-co highway commissioner's office will be carried out, it is believed since the spring road building plan has been announced. Of chief interest to New London citizens and farmers residing along the county line road between Waupaca and Outagamie-co is the fact that no work will be attempted on the road, as had been planned heretofore.

The road when improved would provide a short cut to Oshkosh and through the past autumn it was thought that considerable work would be done on it this summer. The proposed budget apportioned $3,000 to this use, but the highway commission feels that this sum cannot be spent this season. About three and a half miles on State trunk 76 between Greenville and Stephentown, will be paved, the cost to be financed by the $100,000 bond issue authorized by the board. Highway 26, from the junction with highway 76 south to the Winnebago-co line will also be paved, it is said. Another mile and a half stretch west of Dale will be paved.

RAISE $220 FOR H. S. WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

Keen Interest Is Shown in Monday Morning News by Citizens and Students

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—Keen interest and liberal financial support has been generally manifested during the year for the Monday Morning News, local high school weekly paper. This interesting chronicle was established in December, 1924, the name being chosen from a number of names submitted in a contest carried on among the students for that purpose. The junior class established the precedent of sponsoring the edition of the paper and according to the chief members of the staff are chosen from that class. Miss Irene Halverson was appointed first faculty advisor and has held that position continuously.

Representative of the school and a splendid specimen of the ability of the staff students, the paper has received adequate support of towns people, students and faculty. Copies of the paper are distributed weekly in each grade of all public and parochial schools. Each copy should receive a copy regularly during the school year. Each of the four high school classes is given an opportunity during the year to edit one number of the paper. Competition for the honor of publishing the best edition is keen.

Money for the financial support of the paper is raised, aside from advertising, by various activities on the part of the high school classes, the Monday Morning News Staff and the school faculty. This year the seniors are in the lead in this matter, having raised a total of $587.00. The paper has reached a close second with the sum of $47.26; juniors third, having raised $46.00; Monday Morning News staff, fourth with $34.28; the freshmen next, with $22.65; and sophomores added the sum of $3.76 making a total of $219.34. This page weekly ranks well with other high school publications of the state. It seems almost certain that the publication has become a permanent part of the local high school activities.

TYPHOID FEVER AT LOW EBB IN STATE, BOARD INDICATES

Disease More Prevalent in Rural Areas, According to Physician's Review

Madison.—(P)—Typhoid fever has reached a low mark in Wisconsin in comparison to other states of the nation, the state board of health reported.

The statement was prompted by a bulletin issued by Surgeon General H. S. Cumming, of the U. S. Public Health Service, describing progress in the fight against typhoid.

In 1924, the latest year of census figures, the national death rate for typhoid fever was 6.7 per 100,000 people. In Wisconsin the rate in 1924 based on 29 deaths, was 1.0. In 1926, according to latest figures, Wisconsin's typhoid mortality rate was 1.5, based on a total of 42 typhoid deaths. The striking improvement is shown by comparison with 1916, when the death recorded 558 deaths from typhoid fever.

Forty years ago the annual typhoid death rate in the United States was over 50 per 100,000 population. For the last five years it has been under 10.

According to Dr. Cumming's review, typhoid is nearly twice as prevalent in the rural areas as in the large urban areas.

"Most of the reduction in typhoid fever prevalence in the United States during the past thirty years," he said, "has resulted apparently from sanitary progress in our cities. In our rural districts—the source of our food supplies and now also the source of most of our typhoid fever infection—sanitary progress is taking place, but slowly and only in a small proportion to our extensive rural area. The lack of rural sanitation is of critical importance locally and, in view of the interstate aspects, it should be a matter of grave national concern."

The paramount principle in prevention is embodied in sanitation of cleanliness. It is added, Dr. Cumming listed these factors as "clean or purified water supplies; sanitary sewage disposal systems; clean or pasteurized milk supplies; clean vegetable and shellfish supplies; control of fly-breeding; hygienic precautions at the bedside of the sick; and anti-typhoid vaccination."

"It is readily within the power of our average community," he declared, "to bring down and keep down its typhoid fever rate too, or nearly too, the vanishing point."

Adlerika differs from most medicines because it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel. It gives the system a REAL cleansing, and clears out old poisons which usually cause sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache. Just ONE spoonful stops GAS, and relieves that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never guessed was in your system and which may have long caused trouble. Fighting Congress Ends Without Using Great Mace

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington.—This Congress wound down into history as the "Eighty-Sixth-ninth," but it appears to have pulled through without having used the Great Mace.

The Great Mace is the symbol of authority in the House of Representatives which is supposed to police the arm of a congressman as he is off to sock a comrade in the jaw, to shut his mouth when the speaker can't, and to convert him from a jangling madman on his feet to a jerk the person sitting quietly in his seat.

It is some four feet high, a little of twisted ebony rods symbol of united states, bound by crisscrossed silver bands and surmounted by a silver eagle with spread wings perched on a silver globe. When the House is in session it is placed on a pedestal alongside the speaker's desk.

IT ALWAYS WORKS

And whenever there is pronounced disorder on the floor which threatens to increase, the tall and husky A. C. Jordan, assistant sergeant at arms, makes a move for it, although these occasions are rare indeed in these days when there is no bar enstains in the House restaurant, lost congressmen prefer to fight in committee rooms where there is no Gai Mace.

It was nearly eight years ago, soon after Jordan was placed in charge of the weapon, that the Great Mace was last used. Even then, the mace wasn't actually toted down the aisle. A member was creating disturbance. Jordan picked up the mace and prepared to go into action—and that was all that was necessary.

Of course Jordan is a big fellow, obviously possessed of strength despite his years, and that may explain something.

"Years ago," he says, "there were numerous fights and even an occasional shot was fired. The mace was frequently used. When a member was to be arrested, which is unheard of in these prohibition days, he is tapped with the mace—not bludgeoned, you understand, but just tapped."

Jordan recalled that "Socksless Jerry" Simpson of Kansas was once making a speech on the floor which he was speaking apparently couldn't stop Jordan's predecessor grabbed the mace and went after Simpson to make him sit down.

"Take that damned bird away!" yelled "Socksless Jerry," but it worked.

Tom Blanton of Texas has caused Jordan more trouble than anyone else. Blanton and Hardy of Texas started for each other one time about five years ago and Jordan, without bothering about the Great Mace, rushed in between them.

"Hey," shouted Jordan. "You fellows sit down and behave yourselves!"

They did.

On another occasion, Jordan had to exert his influence on Blanton and a member from Ohio.

But the mace-keeper has a high regard for Blanton, nevertheless.

A ROMAN HERITAGE

The mace is a heritage from the Romans, descending from the fasces borne by the victors. These fasces, bundles of rods, held similar miraculous powers to restore order among the rabble when order was desired.

The Romans brought the fasces to Britain and they were handed down until adopted by the first parliament. Today the fasces are still the symbol of authority in the House of Commons.

The House of Representatives was modeled after the House of Commons and thus the present mace. The British burned the Capitol and the mace as well in 1814, and a mace of painted wood was used until 1842, when the present mace was constructed.

PULPWOOD SHIPMENTS ARRIVING HERE DAILY

Between 65 and 75 carloads of pulpwood are arriving in Appleton via the Soo line and the Chicago and Northwestern railroads every day, according to A. W. Liese and W. B. Basing, local agents, for the road. The shipping started about a month ago. About 50 cars come over the Northwestern line and the balance over the Soo line. Each car carries approximately 18 cords of wood, which is stored by lumber mills to keep their machines going during the next year. The wood is shipped from forests in northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Owing to heavy rains in the northern part of the pulpwood states, there will soon be a sharp decrease in these shipments, according to Mr. Basing. It is estimated that shipments will continue until about the middle of June.

Lynx and king fox collars in shawl or half shawl style harmonize in color with the predominating shade of the fabric. $59.50 to $115. Domestic fabrics, though lacking something of the exclusiveness of the imported, make exceedingly attractive coats at $25 and up.
